The longest day: 3 ½ hours to see Freedom Train

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

A massive crowd jammed the American Freedom Train in Pomona Friday, causing serious traffic problems and creating long lines for those waiting to view the displays.

About 4,000 persons had turned out at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds by late afternoon. One official said he expected 16,000 to go through the 10-car historical display by closing time at 10 p.m. A total of 13,000 persons visited the fairgrounds on Tuesday and Wednesday, the first two days of the event.

Crowds will swell now, according to one official, because of the holiday vacation and warmer weather.

The turnout Friday caused traffic problems and a 3½ hour wait in line for those wishing to go through the train.

The traffic backup developed after some who had paid their $1 parking fees entered to find they faced 3½ hour waits and changed their minds.

They would work their way back through to the one entrance-exit gate, Gate 17, and slow the line by stopping to ask for refunds of the parking fees.

When the refunds were denied, some became angry.

"We discussed making refunds to those who did not want to wait," said box office manager Al Aschenbrenner, "but we had no way of telling who had been through the train."

To avoid this problem, Aschenbrenner advised residents to call the box office before leaving home and ask for a count of advance sales at that time, and the estimated wait. The telephone numbers are 629-0700 and 629-0344.

Aschenbrenner advised residents that the best time to go to avoid the crowds would be before 10 a.m., preferably at 8 a.m. He said a maximum of 16,500 visitors can go through the train between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. It will remain at the fairgrounds through Tuesday on that time schedule.

Pomona Police Department had 10 officers inside the fairgrounds Friday afternoon, and as the crowd swelled; sent an additional man to direct traffic on McKinley Avenue at Gate 17.

A carnival air prevailed at the train, where a line snaked its way through a double horseshoe.

Those who decided to endure the long wait were patronizing the food concession stands, reading programs and newspaper accounts of the train exhibits and being entertained by young dancers on a parking-lot stage.

A number of visitors found seats in front of the stage more attractive than the waiting line.

Those who had been through the train lingered to walk its full length, inspect the engine and the car window displays, and pose family members for photographs.

Ford leads drive to halt drug abuse

Aims to block illicit drug traffic into U.S.

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Calling drug abuse a "tragic national problem," President Ford on Friday mounted a major campaign to curb the traffic of heroin, marijuana, hashish and other illicit drugs into the United States.

The President, citing illicit drugs as a major contributor to a growing crime rate, directed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to express to the Mexican government his concern about heroin moving across the border into the southwest United States.

He also asked the domestic council drug abuse task force to come up with specific recommendations for controlling drug traffic along the U.S.-Mexico border.

In a statement issued at his Christmas vacation headquarters, Ford said he had recently discussed the problem with Presidents Luis Echeverria of Mexico and Alfonso Lopez Michelsen of Colombia and with Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel of Turkey. He said the discussions were aimed at strengthening "cooperation of other nations involved in the fight against illicit drug traffic."

He urged Congress to enact his proposal for mandatory minimum sentences for drug traffickers "so those who are spreading this evil throughout our communities will be put behind bars where they belong."

The President also urged Congress to ratify the Convention of Psycotropic Substances " so we can fulfill our obligations to the other nations of the world to see that strong international controls exist for drugs."

He said he would soon send Congress a comprehensive message establishing a framework for a broad government response to the problem.

Ford issued the statement as he spent his fourth day at this Rocky Mountain resort.

The President skied in the morning with members and officials of the U.S. ski team, ate elkburgers at a mountainside luncheon with the Vail ski patrol and spent the afternoon working on a number of bills and paperwork flown here from Washington on Friday by Air Force courier plane.

Ford signed one major bill Friday, a public works appropriation for water and power development and energy research for the fiscal period which began last July 1.

The act provides $9.3 billion for the Corps of Engineers-civil, the Bureau of Reclamation, the power agencies of the Interior Department, the Energy Research and Development Administration and related agencies and commissions.

As Ford headed for the slopes with four U.S. ski team members, he admitted to reporters that after four days of skiing, "my knees are acting up a little bit, but we'll give it a try today." Ford's knees give him trouble from time to time because of old football injuries.

N.H. ballot lists eight top Demos

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Eight major contenders have been joined by nine lesser-known candidates on the ballot of New Hampshire's first-in-the nation presidential primary on Feb. 24.

No minor candidates have filed for the Republican presidential primary, leaving the way open for a clear-cut decision in the battle between President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Friday was the last day of the filing period.

On the Democratic side, Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, former Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver, and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona all have filed nomination papers.

Nine minor candidates, including three who filed last-minute petitions on Friday, are also in the Democratic presidential primary.

Filing petitions Friday were Roger L. McBride of Esmont, Va., Frank J. Bona of Buffalo, N.Y., and Ellen McCormack of Bellamore, N.Y.

They joined Rick Loewenherz of Tulsa, Okla; Billy Joe Clegg of Springfield, Mo.; Robert L. Kelleher of Billings, Mont., Arthur O. Blessit from Miami, Fla.; Stanley N. Arnold of New York; and Bernard B. Schechter of Oceanside, Calif, all of whom had filed earlier.

Winds hit 70 mph; trees toppled

More floods for Washington state

By The Associated Press

Flooding struck Washington state on Friday for the second time this month as a storm swept in from the Pacific.

Gale warnings were up for parts of the Great Lakes and travelers' advisories issued for the south of the lakes with new snow expected.

In the state of Washington, gusty winds and heavy rain caused damage and high water over a wide area and threatened to bring at least five rivers to flood stage.

The National Weather Service in Seattle said a warm front which moved through Friday, with winds measured at up to 70 miles an hour, would be followed by another storm.

The Nooksack, Skagit, Snoqualmie, Stillaguamish and Satsop rivers were forecast to reach flood stage.

Thomas Pryor, State Department of Emergency Services Director, said conditions were not as bad as during flooding in early December. But a spokesman said the state was concerned the new high water would occur in areas that haven't yet recovered from the earlier floods.

Trees were toppled in the Tacoma area by winds clocked at over 50 m.p.h. Part of the roof of a store was blown off.

Drivers on two floating bridges crossing Lake Washngton east of Seattle were warned to use "extreme caution" because of waves lapping over the spans.

Over 4 inches of rain fell during the 24-hour period ending Friday.

Sentence of 94 years given for L.A. scheme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joyce R. Lewis was sentenced to a maximum of 94 years in prison Friday for her role in an elaborate plot to bilk the city of Los Angeles of more than $3.5 million.

In imposing the sentence, Superior Court Judge E. Talbot Callister told the 44-year-old motel operator that he believes she could lead authorities to persons inside city government who participated in the scheme.

Mrs. Lewis was convicted Dec. 4 on 12 felony counts in connection with the case, which involved cashing stolen city checks made out to fictitious persons. She was found guilty on one count of conspiracy to commit forgery and grand theft, four counts of forgery, four counts of attempted grand theft, one count of attempting to receive stolen property and two counts of perjury.

After her conviction, Callister told Mrs. Lewis he thought she could identify city employes involved in the scheme, adding, "at the time of sentencing in this matter, it would appear that the degree of cooperation that the defendant exhibits in revealing the identity of those persons would be a most material factor."

Two men also have been convicted for their part in the plot. One of them, former Palos Verdes businessman Morton Freeman, 47, implicated Mrs. Lewis in a confession to authorities. The other, Bernard Howard, a 52-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., accountant, told authorities the checks had been smuggled out of city hall by "an employee inside the city government who has worked there for 16 or 17 years."

A third man, Richard Keats, 39, of Ft. Lee, N.J., who authorities describe as the mastermind in the scheme, is being held.

Asia gets Soviet super jet service

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union on Friday launched twice-weekly supersonic jet mail and cargo service from Moscow to Central Asia. The flights originally had been scheduled to begin Thursday.

A Tupolev 144 jetliner flew from Moscow to Alma Ata, a distance roughly equivalent to New York-Salt Lake City, in one minute under two hours, Moscow Radio said.

The plane averaged more than 1,000 miles an hour and cruised at 57,000 feet on the 2,050-mile flight.

Bouquets of flowers were presented the fur-hatted crew at Alma Ata, the capital of Soviet Kazakhstan.

The world's other supersonic commercial jet, the British-French Concorde, is scheduled to start regular passenger and freight service Jan. 21 between Paris and Rio de Janeiro and between London and Bahrain.

Ice on the runway at Alma Ata reportedly forced postponement of the inaugural flight scheduled for Christmas Day.

Soviet officials said the Moscow-Alma Ata route was chosen for the first TU144 flights because it is over sparsely populated territory. Studies will be made on the effect of the faster-than-sound plane on the environment in preparation for negotiating flight agreements with foreign countries.

There has been no announcement when international service will start. Passenger tickets won't be sold for the Moscow-Alma Ata trip until the second half of 1976 but a few Russian journalists were allowed on Friday's flight.

Gunman hits gas station

A gunman wearing a long trench coat robbed a Pomona gas station of $1,000 in cash Friday, police said.

Officers stated the man pointed a revolver at attendant Larry Wright and demanded money from the safe in the station's office at 1544 W. Mission Blvd. The robber was described as black, 23 years old, of medium build, with a mustache, and short hair.

'Another woman' says JFK was 'ladies' man'

Socialite, 42, claims she dated Kennedy for 3 years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joan Lundberg Hitchcock, a socialite who is active in politics, says she had an affair with the late John F. Kennedy while he was a senator and describes him as "a ladies' man."

The statement follows several reports about alleged liaisons Kennedy had while he was President.

"I stopped seeing him because there didn't seem to be much of a future in it," Mrs. Hitchcock, 42, said in an interview published Friday in the San Francisco Examiner.

She said she dated Kennedy for three years when he was still a senator and then broke it off to marry a millionaire. Mrs. Hitchcock, known locally as a socialite and unsuccessful candidate for the board of supervisors, is a mother of four and has been married four times.

"It was fun while it lasted," she said. "They were great shiny days. He was a man's man and a ladies' man and I don't think any of the publicity will damage his memory. My attitude about our relationship was that if it wasn't me it would be somebody else."

Mrs. Hitchcock said she would be more specific about the relationship in an autobiography she was writing.

Earlier this month, Judith Campbell Exner of San Diego claimed that she had a "close, personal relationship" with Kennedy while he was president and visited him at the White House. Then Time magazine reported Kennedy had affairs with two women code-named "Fiddle" and "Faddle" by the Secret Service.

Mrs. Hitchcock said she met Kennedy in "a saloon" in Santa Monica when he had just lost the nomination for the vice presidency. "He was sitting next to the juke box and I came over to play a song and we started talking," she said.

That first chat was followed by three years of telephone calls which she said led to assignations in various parts of the country.

"Everyone knows if you go with a gentleman that long you're not just shaking hands," said Mrs. Hitchcock.

She said he was "no different than anybody else when they have a love affair going" and said he gave her several presents.

She said he asked her several times if she thought his wife Jackie had lovers as well. "I'd think about it and always said, 'No chance.'"

"I think she knew a lot more than people thought she did and she went along because she was a great lady," said Mrs. Hitchcock.

She refused to give details about what they did on dates or where they went, except to say they socialized with a group of men known as Kennedy's "Irish Mafia." She also said she had no illusions about being the only "other woman" in his life.

"He was a very busy fellow," she said.

Luxury items sell

Holiday sales exceed hopes

Merchants around the country totaled up Christmas-season selling Friday and reported double-digit sales increases over last year. Luxury items and clothes sold well, pet rocks and mood rings were the fads and some stores nearly ran out of expensive gift wrapping.

Day-after-Christmas shopping was heavy in many cities, but rough weather cut down the activity in some areas.

Reports from both downtown department stores and suburban shopping centers indicated that Christmas shopping exceeded expectations. Compared to last year, sales increases of 15 per cent to 45 per cent were reported in Washington; 25 per cent in Richmond, Va.; 25 per cent in Milwaukee, Wis., and 10 per cent in San Francisco.

Black negligees and microwave ovens sold well at J. I Hudson Co. in Detroit; jewelry and furs did well at Thalhimers in Richmond, Va.; and Jordan Marsh Co. in Boston reported good sales in calculators and digital watches.

"The customer has money and he's willing to spend it. He's not as pessimistic as he was last year," explained Morton Huff, chairman of one of St. Louis' leading retailers, the Famous-Barr Co. Huff said Christmas selling at his store was "exceptional."

Dan Sharkey, a vice president for Dillards in Little Rock, Ark., said shoppers "were in a buying mood."

"The best indication of how well we did is that last year few people were willing to pay for luxury gift wrappping," said Sharkey. "This year people were willing to pay the extra dollar or two. We nearly ran out of wrapping paper and had to scrounge to find some."

Officials in 4 states probe 15 Yule deaths

By The Associated Press

Authorities in four states Friday were probing multiple slayings or murder-suicides in which 15 persons died Christmas Eve or Christmas day.

Police in New Britain, Conn., were stalemated in their investigation of a Christmas morning house fire which killed two men. Authorities said it may have started when intruders poured gasoline over the men.

Police said the fire in the 11-room, wood-frame house may have resulted from a feud between two local social-fraternal organizations, the Earls and the Lords. There were reports the house served as a club house for the Earls.

Three survivors of the fire have said little, police said. "They don't know nothing," said Sgt. William Chute.

Dead in the fire were Frank Cassarino, 19, and Robert Grayla, 26, both of New Britain. Grayla was on leave from the Air Force.

The lone survivor of a Christmas Eve shooting in Winter Garden, Fla., in which four persons were killed at a furniture store, has hired a lawyer and refused to answer questions, officials said Friday.

Sheriff Mel Colman said W.T. Zeigler Jr., owner of the store in which three relatives and a customer were found shot to death, refused comment about the case.

Authorities had waited until Friday to question Zeigler, wounded in what police originally said was a shootout during an apparent robbery at the closed store. He was reported in fair condition in the intensive care ward of a local hospital Friday.

Authorities in Phoenixville, Pa., said Friday the death of a widow, her three children and a male friend whose bodies were found Christmas day in a rural home was a murder-suicide.

State police said all five died from bullet wounds in the head. They said a .38-caliber handgun was found in the right hand of Nicholas J. Foresta, 48, found dead in the home with Judith Saneck, 34, and her three children.

In Newport, Tenn., where four persons were killed in a 3 a.m. shootout Christmas morning, authorites said they were investigating reports the shooting may have been in revenge for an ambush in which a prison escapee was shot last week.

Jackie Laymon, 24, who escaped from a state prison in August and was wounded by shotgun fire a week ago outside his mother's house, walked into the Red Lantern Inn with a carbine. At least two men in the bar opened fire.

L.A. in dense fog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Holiday travelers may not be able to see their way clear to leave Southern California this weekend, or to arrive, due to early-morning and late-night fog forecast Friday by the National Weather Service.

The dense fog which shut down Los Angeles International and Orange County Airports and made driving conditions hazardous early Friday morning is expected to continue this weekend.

Meteorologists predict night and early morning fog and clouds with hazy sunshine through Sunday in most Southern California areas. Highs in Los Angeles and along the coast will range in the mid 60s to low 70s, with lows mostly in the 40s.

Highs in the mountains will run between 55 and 65, with lows around 40.

The desert areas are expected to have variable high clouds, but mostly fair weather through Sunday, will reach the high 60s in the high deserts, dropping to an overnight low of 25 to 40. Low desert tempeatures will hit the mid 70s, with lows in the 40s.

Spotlight on crime

Man, 19, charged with arson

A 19-year old Montclair man found gasping and coughing inside a smoke-filled locked garage at 4507 Kingsley St. in Montclair early Christmas morning was booked in West End Jail Friday on burglary and arson charges.

Carl Edward Cook, 19, of 10848 Central Ave. was arrested by police shortly after he was found inside the burning garage by officers.

Officers said that Steve Miller, one of the occupants of a duplex apartment next to the garage, called Police about 3:40 a.m. Thursday when he heard pounding and a man yelling inside of the locked garage.

Police were first to arrive at the garage, and on opening the door found it filled with smoke and Cook gasping for breath. Firemen arrived moments later and managed to bring a small fire in several paint cans inside the garage under control.

Officers found that a hole had been punched through the garage rented by David Farris from another, another garage rented by Miller. Officers said they suspect that the Cook may have entered the garage to commit a burglary and then intentionally or accidentally started the fire.

Firemen said if the man had not been found by the officers he could have been overcome by smoke and possibly perished in the fire. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

LA VERNE police say they are getting tired of arresting two youths who seem undaunted by the experience.

The latest arrest occurred Wednesday when the pair was charged with burglarizing the drama building at La Verne College. Several rolls of non-prescription medicines were taken along with disposable syringes and a few books on sex education, police said.

On Dec. 11 police arested the pair, both 17-year-old La Verne residents, and charged them with burglary in the theft of automobile equipment taken in a series of thefts from service stations. On that occasion the youths were released to their parents.

But on Dec. 18, after the pair was arrested on charges of stealing a grease gun and compressor from another service station, police sent them to Juvenile Hall. Officers, who suspect that the boys beat the officers back home that day, said it was only four days later they broke into the college.

While officers again released the two to their parents, they said they planned to file formal petitions against them in Juvenile Court.

Also in La Verne, police arrested two teen-age boys Christmas morning who they said took a skiploader from a construction site and drove it around a restricted area near the Sunset Fire Trail north of the city.

The boys, one 13 and the other 14, were booked on grand theft charges and later released to their parents. During the escapade the pair blew out one tire on the skiploader while driving it through hilly, brushy country about a mile from where they had taken it, according to Lt. Edward Morrett. One boy was arrested after a foot chase in the hills and the second was surrendered later by his father.

The skiploader was taken from a housing construction site near Mt. Springs Estates. The key to the vehicle had been stolen the day before, Morrett said.

Police said they have several good leads to the identity of the man who pushed a night club hostess down a flight of stairs in La Verne early Friday morning.

The victim, Marilyn R. Long, 23, hostess at the Cattleman's Wharf, 1504 Foothill Blvd., La Verne, suffered painful injuries to both legs when she tumbled down a flight of 12 stairs at the restaurant. She was taken to San Dimas Community Hospital where she was released after treatment.

The incident occurred at 1:30 a.m. Police said the man who pushed the victim was a member of a party of three couples who entered Thursday night and argued with her over the identification used by one member of the party. During that argument, the identity card was thrown in the victim's face, they said.

Later, the hostess stopped a female member of the party from leaving with a glass of beer. Another argument developed during which the beer was thrown in the hostess' face, officers said. The party left but the woman and her male companion returned and the man shoved the victim down the stairs, the officers said. Then the couple fled.

The man sought by police was described as a black between 20 and 25, 6 feet 1 weighing 195 pounds. He had a medium Afro hairdo and a Fu Manchu mustache.

Students do their own obits

STANFORD (AP) — A group of Stanford students forecast their future achievements as part of an unusual study in which they wrote their own own obituaries.

The aim of the study, involving 40 students, was to give insights into modern society and what today's youth believes lies ahead, according to the Stanford magazine.

Here are excerpts from how some of the students pictured their own death notices.

"Ken Sutherland, who played the bagpipes in the Stanford marching band, graduated with a civil engineering degree in 1978. He won the Nobel Prize for his outstanding environmental research. But he was so caught up in the wild music of the pipes that he retired early to the Scottish highlands. There he joined a pipe band and was elected pipe major."

—"Kismet Collins, B.S. in chemitry 1978, attained fame in her research specialty, the physiology of women... In 2012 she published her first novel, an 'unconventional romance' based on her own experiences."

—"Bradley Krevoy, class of 1978... He fashioned a brilliant career in broadcast news, solved the mystery of the John F. Kennedy assassination singlehandledly and acquired a chain of newspapers and television stations based on the concept of 'freedom of expression through public participation.'"

—"Maria Fiatarone, fencer, graduated in French in 1976. She completed medical schools and as a physician went to practice in West Africa, where she was known far and wide for her humanitarian activities. Her most noted achievement was training medical aid volunteers for the great famine of 2008."

Dying convict wants his freedom — briefly

LA GRANGE, Ky. (AP) — Robert House is serving a life sentence in the Kentucky State Reformatory. He's only 34, but his sentence is not going to be a long one, because he's dying of brain cancer.

House says he wants to die a free man. Officials say they don't see how it can be done.

In 1971, House was convicted of four counts of armed robbery and given one life sentence, one 101-year sentence and two 50-year sentences, and a 21-year sentence for malicious shooting and five more years for driving a stolen vehicle.

House says his record has been clean for three years in the prison.

"I know I did wrong, and in the last four or five years I've accepted the fact that I was an inmate, and that I had to stay behind bars, but I don't feel that I did that much wrong.

"The doctors tell me I can die at any time," he said, "and I just don't want to die in here."

The tumor in House's brain — about the size of a golf ball, doctors say — affects his speech. He's lost more than 100 pounds in 18 months and he's lost most of his hair from the 42 cobalt radiation treatments he's received.

He underwent brain surgery last January, and a nerve leading from his brain to his left arm was severed during the operation. He cannot hold any weight in his left hand.

Doctors vote to cut service at 8 hospitals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Top medical officers of eight Los Angeles hospitals said Friday doctors under them have voted to cut back service sharply effective Jan. 1 in protest of malpractice insurance rate hikes.

The chiefs of staff of St. Vincent's Medical Center, Good Samaritan, California, Midway, Queen of Angels, Orthopedic, Hollywood Presbyterian and Temple hospitals have met with their respective staffs, who have voted either to limit practice or close down altogether, said Dr. Daniel Silver.

They would accept emergency cases, however, he said.

"We urge our patients, the people of Southern California, to join us in this protest," the doctors said in their statement.

Their statement added they feel the malpractice insurance rates place an "impossible" burden not only on doctors but on patients.

"No satisfactory solution to these problems has been produced by our state government after more than nine months of consideration," the doctors said.

Incumbents face challenges in 5 of 6 cities

One valley mayor has it easy, two others face opposition and incumbent councilmen in three cities already know the full extent of what they're up against for re-election.

This was the picture following the passing of the Wednesday filing deadline for municipal contests in which all incumbents are seeking re-election.

Mayor's contests in La Verne, Chino and Upland are now closed, as are filings for council memberships in Ontario, Montclair and San Dimas. In addition, incumbent city clerks and treasurers are running in Ontario, Upland and La Verne.

Council aspirants still have until Tuesday to come forward in Claremont, Walnut, La Verne, Upland and Chino because one or more incumbents isn't trying to regain his post.

In La Verne Mayor Mike Morales has clear sailing. He is unopposed for another two-year term. However, Chino Mayor Bob McLeod has three opponents and Upland Mayor Abner Haldeman will have to beat out incumbent Councilman and former Mayor George M. Gibson to retain his job.

McLeod's opponents are Robert Bertschinger, 13121 Third St.; Nick Medina, 12535 Ross Ave.; and Henry J. Van Dyke, 5042 Mt. Vernon Ave.

Nineteen candidates are in the running for three Ontario City Council seats.

They include three incumbents, Faye Myers Dastrup, Gustavo Ramos Jr. and Marie H. Sharp and Lee Green, 1549 S. Pleasant Ave; Joe Espinoza, 1515 N. Miramonte Ave; James Leonberger, 221 W. F St.; Miss Kathleen Winters, 508 Lynhaven Court; Allen Kinnaman, 1706 E. Rosewood Court; Gerardo Arredondo, 539 E. Belmont St.; Homer F. Briggs, 1424 W. Philadelphia St.; Malcolm S. Osmonson, 817 W. I St.; Beecher Medlin, 1347 W. Princeton St.; Anthony Rizzo, 1368 W. Rosewood Court; John Hahn, 326 E. C St., Michael L. Holmes, 518 E. Fifth St., L. Harlan Lee, 2139 E. Fourth St., Lee Bidwell, 2139 E. Fourth St., Gordon L. Adams, 958 N. Allyn Ave., and Roger A. Skogman, 928 N. Lake Ave.

Other candidates in Ontario are Mrs. DeLoris E. Arterburn, the incumbent and only candidate for city clerk; and Viola E. Antwiler, the incumbent, and Martin Roach, 325 E. G St., who both seek city treasurer.

There are four candidates for the two council seats to be elected in Montclair. Gary Cochran, 5005 Orchard St., and Javier Lopez, 9209 Ramona Ave., will vie for the positions against the incumbents seeking re-election, Tom McClure and Paul Jones.

Contenders for two council seats in San Dimas are incumbents Keith Brogan and Ray Miracle, business communications service consultant for Pacific Telephone Co.; Clyde R. Bartman, planning commissioner and insurance executive; Philip Wax, businessman; and Terry Dipple, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission and a senior at La Verne College.

Mrs. Doreen Carpenter, the incumbent Upland city clerk, has filed for re-election and will be challenged by Mrs. Mary Lucas, 1682 Benton Way.

The city treasurer, Robert A. Thrall, is the only person who filed for the office.

In La Verne, City Clerk Ruth Hogan and treasurer Geraldine Peck are unopposed for re-election to their four-year terms.

Two new state laws make it harder to avoid jury duty

Two new laws going into effect on Jan. 1 will delete all automatic occupational exemptions from jury duty and a list of all Californians with driver's licenses will be provided jury commissioners to assist in selecting potential jurors.

San Bernardino County Superior Court Presiding Judge Don A. Turner said the two new laws will have a great effect on the obligation of citizens to serve on trial juries.

The first of these laws, Assembly Bill 681, co-authored by Assemblymen Alfred Siegler, D-Santa Rosa, and William J. McVittie, D-65th Dist., amends the civil procedure by deleting all occupational exemptions from jury duty.

Currently citizens in 70 occupations can request and be excused from jury duty including doctors, lawyers, teachers, legislators, policemen, firemen, telephone employes and ministers.

Judge Turner also indicated that under the new rules of procedure a person may request to be excused from jury service on the grounds that such service would entail undue hardship on the juror or the public served by the juror. Requests to be excused from jury must be made in writing to the jury commissioner at the respective County Courthouse.

Donald K. Crowell, San Bernardino Superior Court coordinator and jury commnissioner, said that in preparing the list of qualified jurors for 1976 there has been an immediate 30 per cent increase over the list of qualified jurors in previous years.

Crowell said all employers should be aware of the new law and be alert to the need of additional replacement staff to allow for employes who will now be called as prospective jurors in Superior, Municipal and Justice courts.

The second law affecting jury duty, Assembly Bill 1683, was introduced by Assemblyman William Thomas, R-Bakersfield. The new law requires the Department of Motor Vehicles to furnish upon request a list of all persons in each county who are licensed to drive or who have been issued an identification card. This list will be provided to the jury commissioner in each county.

Currently most counties rely on the list of registered voters for the names of prospective jurors. This practice, according to Judge Turner, has led to charges that some citizens are not registering to vote in order to avoid jury service.

It was the hope of the legislature that the new procedure will have a positive effect on voter registeration, said Turner.

Crowell indicated that the use of the Department of Motor Vehicles list will include about 87 per cent of the eligible population.

The political arena

Lloyd turns blue-collar worker . . . Rousselot hits red tape costs

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., will initiate a series of district workdays on Monday when he changes tires and pumps gasoline at Bob Conlon's Tire Service, 202 W. Badillo St., Covina.

The legislator previously announced he would use the "work days" to bring him into closer contact with his constituents and improve his communications with the public.

He also plans to collect garbage in Pomona, sell gasoline at Russ Morgan's Texaco service station in Pomona, assist patrons at a public library and work on an assembly line at an industrial plant at Ontario International Airport.

Lloyd plans to continue his full schedule of official functions with district office appointments and meetings.

REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., has introduced a bill designed to lower the prices of manufactured goods for consumers by curbing unnecessary government regulations that drive up prices.

"The Regulatory Reform Act will promote economic recovery because it would curb the dangerous regulations that are stifling healthy competition and causing prices to skyrocket from the hidden taxes imposed on them," he said.

"Unelected bureaucrats in diverse government agencies are issuing massive numbers of conflicting regulations. The result is that no matter how hard a business attempts to comply with the law it is almost impossible for it to avoid violations.

"And once a business has been charged with a violation the resulting administrative procedures are lengthy and complicated. The regulations, as they now stand, hurt business, hurt consumers and require large government expenditures to support the bureaucrats ordering conflicting and overlapping regulations."

Rousselot believes his bill will enable the regulatory system to operate fairly and efficiently and make unelected employes in government agencies demonstrate to Congress that the proposed regulations would not result in higher prices.

DEMOCRATS UNITED of the East San Gabriel Valley will hold a New Year's Eve party Wednesday at the home of the president, Roger Schamp, 567 Rancho Alegre Drive, Covina.

The party, starting at 8 p.m., will include a potluck buffet. Persons interested in attending may contact the organization at (213) 332-2710. Local Democratic office holders and candidates have been invited to participate.

THE WEST END PUBLIC Employes Coalition has voted to actively encourage qualified persons to file for elective public offices in the West End of San Bernardino County.

The coalition, composed of firemen, police officers, municipal and public school employes, will conduct interview sessions next month for the purpose of endorsing candidates. Notices will be sent to these candidates.

Persons seeking assistance from the coalition may contact Lou Gentile at 985-5264 or 987-1737.

The House of Representatives has passed a $4.6 billion measure which aids localities in improving airport facilities and for the first time permits federal aid to help suppress aircraft noise and relieve congestion in terminal areas.

In the past, federal aid for airport development has been limited to runway and taxiway construction and similar activities, said Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-32nd Dist., who is chairman of the House aviation subcommittee.

Under the proposal adopted by the House, federal money can be used to improve baggage claim facilities, gates and mass transit within the terminal area.

"At the major airports, congestion has caused passengers to spend more time on the ground than in the air," he reported. Assistance for these purposes comes from a trust fund consisting of "user taxes."

The House proposal includes $10.1 million for Los Angeles International Airport to be used over the next five years for terminal development and relief of airport congestion.

The proposal also recognizes for the first time the serious aircraft noise problem on the surrounding areas, said Anderson. "Because of the noise emanating from airports, the health and welfare of residents of surrounding communities is being impaired and the courts are awarding damages."

News brief

The REV. LLOYD SAATJIAN, pastor of the Palm Springs United Methodist Church, was named the School of Theology at Claremont's 1975 Distinguished Alumnus in ceremonies held at the annual alumni banquet.

Saatjian was presented the award in recognition of his creative parish ministry as well as his leadership in the community. He has been pastor of the Palm Springs church since 1966.

Claremont plugs into land data system

With some reluctance the Claremont City Council has approved a $5,450 contract with a Long Beach firm to set up a parcel-by-parcel data file system which city officials say will help the Planning Department to its job more efficiently.

City Manager Norman King assured the council that the up-to-date parcel maps which Esca-Tech Corp. will generate "alone are worth it."

King said that maps are plotted by Esca-Tech in a fraction of the time it would take the city staff to perform the same task.

Once the file system has been set up, the city must pay a minimum monthly application charge of $200 a month.

A parcel file system is basically an information system set up to store, sort and report various bits of date relating to land parcels throughout the city such as census tracts, zoning district classification, special areas subject to flooding, to noise impact or to seismic risk, general plan classifications, and even family incomes per block.

The system will also incorporate all the information on the county assessor's tapes and include such items as age of buildings, building permits issued, and code violations.

Under the present parcel file available through Municipal Data System of which Claremont is a member, each time a circumstance changes such as land being rezoned, the computer will update the parcel on a geographical basis.

MDS will supply a tape of the parcel file system to Esca-Tech which will run the tape through his computer so that the parcel file will be correlated to a geo-coded parcel map.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald didn't like the proposed system, noting that "we've always been a hang-loose city. Code violations were not enforced until complaints were issued. Now that will be changed."

She likened it to "Big Brother is watching you," but did not object to Councilman Frank Hungerford's motion when he said, "You can make this pay for itself."

In other matters, the council took the following actions:

—Amended the joint powers authority agreement with the cities of Pomona, La Verne, Walnut and San Dimas by adding a paragraph relating to personnel serving the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Authority.

The amendment says that the authority shall use the recruitment, selection, placement and maintenance services of Pomona's Personnel Department to secure and retain project staff personnel. Salaries will be set by the project board and will conform to Pomona's salary grid.

—Received and filed again a Traffic Safety Commission recommendation that the City Council consider installation of traffic signals at Indian Hill Boulevard and Harrison Avenue "at the earliest possible time."

—Approved the hiring of a consultant on an hourly basis up to $4,500 for preparation of plans, specifications, and estimates for the reconstruction of College Avenue between Foothill Boulevard and the San Bernardino Freeway.

The project will consist of reconstructing deteriorated sections of pavement and overlaying or slurry-sealing of other sections. It also includes reconstruction of certain sections of broken curb and gutter.

BRIAN DANKER

4-H is fun —and profit for student

Brian Danker, 19, a sophomore at Cal Poly Pomona, has grossed almost $20,000 on his swine, beef and sheep during his nine years of participation in the 4-H program.

His latest award, a $1,000 scholarship from the International Harvester Co., was presented at the 54th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill.

Danker was one of six national winners in the 4-H agricultural program sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and International Harvester.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Danker of Anaheim, the Cal Poly student plans a career in biology and animal science. Danker's father manages over 300 acres of citrus, and young Danker manages three acres of oranges and avocados in his 4-H agricultural project.

However, Danker has stressed livestock projects and has found swine to be the most profitable. He raised 31 sows, 10 gilts, 10 boars and 645 pigs over a nine-year period and made a profit of $14,709.

LaVerne plans whale of a trip

The La Verne Recreation Department will conduct an excursion to the Dana Point fishing wharf Jan. 24 to watch the California gray whales migrate south for the winter.

A 65-foot fishing boat will take visitors along the coastline to watch the whales.

Departure time will be 8 a.m. from the Alpha Beta parking lot downtown. The fee is $6 per person. Reservations are now being accepted by the La Verne Recreation Office.

Reward awaiting tipster

The We Turn in Pushers, Inc. (We T.I.P.) Board of Directors has authorized an anonymous informant who aided Pomona police in the arrest and conviction of a Pomona resident on a narcotics charge to pick up his reward at a prearranged drop point.

Bill Brownell, state director for We T.I.P., said that tipster GG4874 provided information that led police to the arrest of Priciila Sanchez, 21, of Pomona for investigation of possession of amphetamines recently. Miss Sanchez subsequently was convicted for possession of narcotic paraphernalia, said Brownell.

People who have information about suspected drug pushers may call We T.I.P.'s secret operator at 800-472-7785 toll-free from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, except holidays.

Fwy. link: an open and shut case

Two westbound lanes of the nearly completed Foothill Freeway across Pasadena will open briefly to traffic on New Year's Day to accommodate drivers attending the Rose Bowl game.

From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. vehicles entering Pasadena on the freeway from the east will be able to continue to the Mountain Avenue offramp near the Rose Bowl. This will be the only access as vehicles won't be allowed to enter the five-mile uncompleted section in Pasadena.

This temporary opening is primarily for the convenience of motorists entering Pasadena from the east and south, said officials of the California Department of Transportation. More than one million persons enter and depart from Pasadena on New Year's Day.

The westbound freeway lanes will open permanently in January and the eastbound lanes in February. Work remaining includes lighting, median fencing and installation of ceramic lane markers.

Demo in 33rd District

Santa Fe Springs solon eyes Senate

Mrs. Betty Wilson, a member of the Santa Fe Springs City Council, plans to seek election as state senator for the newly created 33rd Senatorial District.

The candidate, a Democrat, said she is concerned with state and federal legislation which has put a "strangehold" on municipal governments.

"I have seen more and more state mandated legislation which is unbelievably costly to the cities — not only in time but also taxpayers dollars," she declared.

The district includes Diamond Bar, Walnut, Rowland Heights, Hacienda Heights, Norwalk, Downey, Whittier, Artesia and La Mirada. Previlysly announcing his candidacy for the office was Norwalk Councilman Cecil Green, a Democrat.

"California, which has never had a woman in the state Senate, needs a new input to meet current challenges such as medical malpractice, day care centers for working mothers and unemployment, to name a few of the myriad of problems facing the current legislation," said Mrs. Wilson.

The candidate has served on the Santa Fe Springs City Council for 18 years and as mayor there at one time was the first woman mayor in Los Angeles County.

She serves as chairman of the California State League of Cities' International Municipal Cooperation Committee and the National League of Cities International Affairs Committee.

Automatic bank checkoff plan supports church

In ancient times, believers brought the first tenth of farm fruits and grain and laid it on the altar to support the church. Later, they substituted coins and currency, then checks. Now, some are turning to automatic bank checkoffs.

In a period of economic crunch, the electronic-transfer system is among various new wrinkles turning up to keep the religious enterprise going.

In some cases, members are providing interest-free loans to stave off high-interest mortgages. At the same time, many churches are stepping up services to financially hard-hit people, including helping the unemployed find jobs, and sometimes giving out cash.

But this autumn, with many churches conducting their annual every-member canvasses for pledges of financial support, the new bank checkoff system is among the major innovations, with churches of 10 denominations in five cities trying it out for the first time.

"We're just getting it started," says the program's director, the Rev. Dr. J. Allan Ranck, of the National Council of Churches offices in New York. "But in the long run, it could revolutionize methods of church-giving."

With many people now paying various obligations through automatic checkoff, such as social security, insurance, utilities and mortgages, he said the system both can benefit the churches, and fit the habits and convenience of members.

Under the plan, called "First Fruits" in Biblical terminology, a contributor makes an annual commitment to the church, authorizing it to draw that amount, through a data processing service, from the contributor's bank, either in monthly or quarterly payments.

Besides making for a steadier cash flow to the church, helping it to stabilize its program planning, the system also is seen as encouraging the giver to include church support in his primary budget, a "first fruit," not just a left-over.

The Rev. Clifford Lott, of Nashville, stewardship officer for the United Methodist Church which is among participating denominations, says many people pay their regular bills each month, often through electronic-transfer systems, and then "give to the church from what is left over."

The new system, he adds, "helps donors give a higher priority to the church."

Other denominations, involved in developing the system, are the American Baptist Churches, Christian Church (Disciples), Church of the Brethren, Episcopal Church, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, Presbyterian Church U.S., United Presbyterian Church, Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and United Church of Christ.

Guidance materials are being supplied through the National Council to congregations in Philadelphia, Atlanta, Kansas City, Dallas-Fort Worth and Los Angeles. Dr. Ranck said churches elsewhere asking to participate would be included. As an option to the bank checkoff system, payments to churches also can be authorized through credit cards, but they involve service charges.

Other new ways of dealing with church finances are turning up. In Johnston, R.I., St. Rocco's Roman Catholic parish, facing higher interest on its $217,000 mortgages, got members to substitute loans in that amount, interest free. In Davenport, Iowa, Holy Family parish is selling no-interest bonds to members to pay off debts.

At Beverly Hills Baptist Church in Dallas, after worshippers contributed $1,000 at a midwest prayer service, the pastor had the baskets of money recirculated, inviting anyone to "take what they need." A few did.

Oregon opens door again

PORTLAND, Ore (AP) — Okay, everybody. It's all right again to move to Oregon.

In 1971, when Tom McCall was governor, he said "Visit us often, but for heaven's sake don't move here to live."

Some people took McCall seriously. Forgetting that McCall said tourists were welcome, out-of-state travelers apologized for being here, and promised to leave soon.

Oregon residents, when they left the state, got fishy stares and people told them: "If you don't want us in your state, then we don't want you here."

Now the present governor, Bob Straub, has declared McCall's policy obsolete.

"We need industrial growth and the tourist industry is an important one," Straub said recently. In addition to more tourists, Straub is trying to attract industry to Oregon, especially to sparsely populated sections of the state.

He indicated McCall's statement had given Oregon time to prepare for an influx of industry, in part through adoption of a statewide plan for land use.

Actually, McCall's remark didn't seem to stunt Oregon's growth. It is the seventh fastest growing state in the nation.

McCall's statement was immensely popular here. It pleased those who took it literally, who didn't want more people here.

But it also pleased the expansionists, who thought McCall was employing reverse psychology and that he really wanted people to come.

McCall, now a lecturer and television commentator in Portland, never said whether he meant it to be taken seriously.

The stay-away attitude in Oregon isn't entirely dead. A study commissioned by the federal Environmental Protection Agency recently named Portland and Eugene, Ore., as the most liveable cities in the nation for their size.

To illustrate the story, one Portland television reporter showed film of jammed freeways, a man struggling with snow tires for his car, female wrestlers, a man getting a shot during a hepatitus epidemic, an argument at a city council meeting, and a workman tearing up a street with a jackhammer.

Sun used for waste evaporation

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The warm, dry climate of this Gulf Coast area is being used to create a wastewater treatment plant that employs solar evaporation to achieve absolute zero-discharge. This totally eliminates pollution from the process waters used in making chemicals.

The new environmental protection system, according to Union Carbide's plant manager, Bill McManus, is like nature's own method for handling wastes. The process water is collected and pumped into an evaporation pond, where the liquid waste materials are oxidized to harmless carbon dioxide. The hot climate evaporates the water from the pond, and with the help of aerating pumps to speed the process, leaves only minute quantities of solids behind.

McManus said that the system, which is the first on the Gulf Coast and one of the first in the petrochemicals industry, will cost $4.4 million and will meet 1985 federal environmental standards by 1977.

Ford entered in nation's 1st primary

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Nomination papers entering President Ford in New Hampshire's earliest-in-the-nation presidential primary were filed Wednesdy.

Rep. James C. Cleveland, R.-N.H., chairman of Ford's New Hampshire campaign, said,"We're going to do fine. We're not overoptimistic. We have a good candidate and are going to put on a good campaign."

Cleveland said Ford had no alternative but to enter the Feb. 24 New Hampshire primary because it would have been misinterpreted if he had not.

"We're going to have a confrontation with (Ronald) Reagan somewhere. It might as well be here," he said.

BILLY GRAHAM says about the new motion picture "Time to Run"...

There is no doubt that today we see the family unit being attacked from every side, torn apart and fragmented. TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family, about listening, about the silences between people, the unspoken moments, and the moments of anger that don't really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma.

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children . . . or your parents . . . to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture!

New Year's Eve concert features gospel groups

Three gospel groups from the valley will combine their talents for a New Year's Eve concert which is open to the public without charge.

The interdenominational concert will be on Dec. 31 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the First Baptist Church of Ontario.

Performing groups are The Halleluiah Brass, The Obadiah and the Menno-Choralaires.

The seven members of the brass group are Harry Hughes, trumpet and French horn; Scott Butler, sound technician; Debbie Lewis, Piano; Tom Verseput, trombone; Marvin Tapsfield and Mervin Tapsfield, trumpet and piccolo trumpet; and John Campbell, percussion.

The Obadiah vocal group has appeared throughout Southern California and on television. Members are Ed Bontrager, Ted Culpepper, Tony Schiavo, Dale Brunk, Robin Brooks, Shari Butler, Nelda Shepherd, and John Shepherd.

The Menno-Choraliers all-male choir was organized nine years ago by a group in Upland. The original singers were from two Mennonite churches in Upland. Since then members have joined from Brethren in Christ, Baptist, Free Methodist, United Methodist, Independent, Nazarene, Church of God and Southern Baptist congregations.

A record album by the group was released in 1974 in an effort to extend the choir's music beyond its Sunday-evening programs.

Use of films and TV fires religious dispute

PITTSBURG, Calif. (AP) — The use of films and television as educational tools in the public schools is under fire here from angry parents who have pulled their children out of class and now may face truancy charges.

More than 20 children of Pittsburg Pentecostal Church members have missed classes for more than three weeks because of the dispute, which has seen picketing, leafleting, a parade to drum up support for the parents and several fruitless meetings between the two sides.

The parents say the church prohibits watching audio-visual programs. School officials counter the programs are a valuable teaching tool.

The boycott is expected to last through the holidays, at which time, both sides agree, it probably will wind up in the courts.

"What we've got here is a classic challenge of the American secular school system that has got to be met," says Dr. Robert Rothschild, superintendent of the Pittsburg school district.

Rothschild said his staff is gathering information and consulting an attorney for a possible move in Municipal Court against the parents, who started their boycott Nov. 24.

California's compulsory attendance law provides that a parent could be fined $25 a day or sentenced to five days in jail if convicted of encouraging the truancy of a child.

The Rev. Jack Edwarks pastor of the church, says the parents are adamant. "We won't back down," he said. "If the school district won't change its stand, then we will have to look into the establishment of a private school."

He said his church regards "worldly entertainment" as sinful and requires members to sign a pledge that they will not watch television or films.

The school district's requirement that all children must participate in audio-visual programs, he added, "is a violation of our First Amendment freedom to practice our religious beliefs in the schools."

Rothschild said he turned down a request to exempt the children from such programs for educational reasons.

"We feel that audio-visual equipment is used in teaching nearly all students today," he said. "They are non-sectarian in purpose and manner. We feel if children were allowed to leave the classroom during the showings, it would be a denial of education for them."

The Rev. Mr. Edwards says his parishioners fear television programs will "brainwash our children. We pay taxes in this district and we feel we have the right to have our children attend public schools without having their religious principles sacrificed."

One of the television programs routinely shown in the public schools is "Sesame Street." Mrs. Shelba Gatti, a 34-year-old mother of three, says the show is a prime example of what the dispute is all about.

Mrs. Gatti said she had no objections to certain characters in the series such as the Cookie Monster, but complained about the "hard rock background music they use in those programs. Hard rock motivates sex urges, it really does, and it's all part of the drug scene."

The church has a strict code of conduct prohibiting the use of tobacco, alcohol, drugs, or cosmetics, or the wearing of revealing clothing.

Another parent, Dennis Rawski, who removed his 6-year-old son from school the first day of the boycott, suggested that the passive nature of viewing films deprived his child of experiencing life first-hand.

Television and films, he said, constitute "a substitute for active participation in life."

The school district, he continued, is forcing his son "to live in a TV world in which they will lose all communication with God."

In 1571, the pioneer German astronomer, Johannes Kepler, was born in Wurttemberg.

In 1822, the scientist known as the founder of preventive medicine, Louis Pasteur, was born in the French city of Dole.

In 1900, prohibitionist Carrie Nation staged her first raid on a saloon, smashing bottles at a bar in Wichita, Kan.

In 1944, in World War II, an American tank column smashed across the German bulge in Belgium and relieved U.S. troops who had been under siege at Bastogne.

In 1945, after World War II, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years, then grant independence.

In 1966, a rally of 100 thousand Red Guards in Peking denounced China's President Liu Shao-chi.

Rams, Cardinals is classic matchup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — St. Louis won in the East and Los Angeles in the West, and their playoff clash Saturday based on regular season records comes as a classic matchup of offense vs. defense.

In this case, the Rams' defense is favored by six points at the 1:05 p.m. PST kickoff.

Riddled by injuries to the offense recently, the Western Division winners of the National Football Conference nevertheless wound up their season 12-2 with an upset 10-3 victory over the defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox said he would not know until game time whether regular James Harris or reserve Ron Jaworski would open at quarterback.

Meanwhile, St. Louis, 11-3, arrived in Los Angeles in good physical condition.

During the regular season, St. Louis scored 356 points, second in the NFC, and tied for second in total offense at 353.9 yards per game. Los Angeles gave up only 135 points, fewest in the NFL and second lowest ever in a 14-game league schedule.

Opponents of the Rams averaged just 237.3 yards per game, and Los Angeles permitted only 15 touchdowns during the season and just three during their six-game winning string at the end of the season.

The defenders also sacked opposing quarterbacks 43 times, second in the NFC, while St. Louis protected quarterback Jim Hart stoutly and only eight sacks were recorded against the Cardinals.

"This will be our toughest game of the year from the offensive standpoint because the Rams are so tough defensively," said Coach Don Coryell of St. Louis.

So came the rejoinder from Knox, "This will be the biggest challenge for our defense because the Cardinals have such a potent offense with so many all-pros on the team. They've got to have a great offensive line when their fullback gains over 1,000 yards and the quarterback was sacked only eight times."

Los Angeles gets fullback Lawrence McCutcheon back for the playoffs after a pulled thigh muscle kept the team's leading rusher out of the Pittsburgh game. McCutcheon, who surpassed the 1,000-yard mark in 1973 and 1974, rushed for 911 during the regular season.

Jim Otis, the Cardinals' fullback, gained 1,076 yards to head the NFC. And Terry Metcalf set an NFL record for the combination of rushing, pass catching and kick returns with 2,464 yards.

A crowd of 75,000 is expected for the game. The weather forecast is for clear skies and warm temperatures. The game will be televised nationally but the Los Angeles area will be blacked out.

There was some additional good news from the medical front for the Rams. Offensive tackle Charlie Cowan reported his injured ankle felt much beter although he hasn't worked out this week, and reserve fullback John Cappelletti, who suffered from mononucleosis, has been given clearance to play.

Arizona State wins gamble

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Dennis Sproul, acting more like a Las Vegas gambler than a sophomore quarterback, convinced Arizona State Coach Frank Kush to take a chance on a fourth-down play Friday and it paid off handsomely.

Buoyed by the gamble, the Sun Devils completed a perfect season with a 17-14 come-frombehind victory over Nebraska in the fifth Fiesta Bowl.

Sproul asked Kush to take his field-goal unit off the field after it had been sent on with a four-and-one situation. The coach agreed, Sproul got his first down, then reserve quarterback Fred Mortensen hit John Jefferson with a 10-yard touchdown pass and Danny Kush, the coach's son, kicked a 29-yard field goal as seventh-ranked Arizona State handed the sixth-ranked Cornhuskers their second straight defeat.

"I felt, when I was going on the field, that we should go for a touchdown," said the younger Kush. But he said when his father ordered him out on the field, he followed orders without hesitation.

"I thought of going for the field goal early in the fourth quarter," said his dad, the coach, "figuring we had time to gain the lead. But Sproul indicated he could make it and he ran the quarterbark sneak. It was a good call...because it worked. If it had failed, well, it wouldn't have been a good call."

"I wanted to take it because I felt we could make it," Sproul, a sophomore from Los Altos High in Hacienda Heights, added.

The crucial situation arose on the third play of the fourth quarter with Arizona State trailing 14-6 and the ball on the Nebraska 13-yard line. Sproul's dive off right tackle to the 11 gave ASU a new life, but he jammed his left wrist on the play and had to leave the game—leaving Mortensen to gain the glory.

"I had been ready to play all week and I was sure glad to get in there," said Mortensen, the team's regular punter. One play after he got in there, he rifled his scoring strike to the 6-foot Jefferson. That play cut the Cornhuskers' lead to 14-12 and Mortensen's toss to wingback Larry Mucker at the left edge of the end zone pulled the Sun Devils into a tie.

Nebraska went to the air in an attempt to regain the lead but defensive end Al Weigandt sacked quarterback Terry Luck for an 11-yard loss and Randy Lessman's ensuing punt was shanked for 11 yards and went out of bounds.

On the following series, Mortensen's deep pass was intercepted by Dave Butterfield on the Nebraska one-yard line. The Cornhusker coudn't move, though, and were forced to punt again, setting up the Sun Devils on their own 49-yard line.

Sproul, a sophomore, came back into the lineup and opened a drive with a 13-yard run, then hit Jefferson on a 16-yard pass. With six minutes to play, Arizona State ran three plays into the line to put the ball on the Nebraska 12-yard line, dead center on the field.

On fourth down, with 4:50 on the clock, Kush, who had missed the last three ASU games with a leg injury, kicked the field goal that gave the Sun Devils a 12-0 record and stopped Nebraska's bowl-winning streak at six games. The Cornhuskers, who lost to Oklahoma in the season's final game, wound up 10-2.

Now trailing by three points, Nebraska launched another drive. Tony Davis and Monte Anthony gained big chunks of yardage on the ground and Luck began to throw. Tom Heiser caught a key seven-yard pass, then Luck hit split end Bobby Thomas for nine more as the Cornhuskers crept closer to field goal range.

But on 3-and-10 at the ASU 31, with 1:08 to play, Luck hit Davis on a pass over the middle and when John Harris slammed into the Nebraska fullback, the ball popped loose and middle guard Rocky Mataalii pounced on it, killing the threat. ASU then ran out the clock—and thousands of fans from the crowd 51,396 ran out onto the field as the final seconds ticked away.

Arizona State moved the ball well in the first quarter, driving 43 yards in nine plays after linebacker Larry Gordon intercepted starting quarterback Vince Ferragamo's first pass. Sproul's third-down pass to Jefferson for seven yards gave Kush the chance to kick the first of his three field goals, this one a 27-yarder.

Nebraska, which did most of its scoring through the year in the first period, took the lead in the second quarter on Anthony's one-yard run to climax a 73-yard, eight-play drive. Anthony's 34-yard burst to the ASU seven set up the score.

The Sun Devils narrowed the gap to 7-6 on Kush's 34-yard field goal with one second left in the second period. Jefferson caught an 18-yard, fourth-down pass to keep that drive alive.

Nebraska showed its ball-control power early in the third period, taking the ball at its own nine-yard line and marching 91 yards in 16 plays, 13 running and three through the air on short Luck completions. The drive consumed more than seven minutes and ended on Anthony's four-yard plunge behind All-American center Rik Boness.

Gordon and Boness were ejected early in the fourth period after exchanging punches in the spirited game.

Davis, a 5-11, 214-pound senior, wound up with just 60 yards rushing but it gave him a career total of 2,445 yards, breaking the all-time Nebraska record of 2,420 set by Jeff Kinney in 1969-71.

Jefferson, named Offensive Player of the Game, caught eight passes for 113 yards and Sproul wound up completing 14 of 35 tosses for 163 yards. Anthony led Nebraska rushers with 94 yards and his two scores.

The closeness of the game was evident from the teams' statistics. Each had 20 first downs and ASU, which entered the game as the nation's sixthbest offensive team, outgained Nebraska in yards 335-288.

Jabbar is hero for L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar pumped in 41 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked nine shots as the Los Angeles Lakers whipped the Portland Trailblazers 104-95 Friday evening in National Basketball Association play.

The Laker victory improved their home record for the season to 16-1 and kept them in second place in the Pacific Division.

Lacius Allen scored 19 points for the Lakers, while Geoff Petrie led the Portland scoring with 34 points.

Larue Martin added 16 and Sidney Wicks 14 for the losers.

Action was spiced in the fourth quarter by a brief scuffle between Abdul-Jabbar and the Trailblazers' Steve Hawes.

The Lakers led from the early moments of the contest, falling behind only briefly in the fourth period after a Petrie layin gave Portland an 81-79 lead.

But Abdul-Jabbar, Gail Goodrich and Allen quickly put the Lakers back on top, 91-85, and the Trailblazers never threatened again.

The Lakers used crisp passing and a fast break the first period to move out to a 14-4 lead. But Petrie put together a hot shooting streak as the Trailblazers sliced the margin to 20-18 with just 2½ minutes to play in the quarter.

The Lakers, however, got buckets by Goodrich and Abdul-Jabbar and led 28-22 at the end of the quarter.

Los Angeles' defense smothered the Trailblazers in the second period, and Cazzie Russell came off the Laker bench to add punch to the Laker offense as they built up a 50-40 halftime advantage.

The third quarter turned into a shooting duel between Abdul-Jabbar and Petrie with the Lakers holding a 73-67 margin going into the final period.

Petrie and Wicks dominated the scoring in the early moments of the final period as Portland moved into the lead.

Vegas posts playoff odds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, Los Angeles Rams, Minnesota Vikings and Oakland Raiders were made favorites Friday to win their first round games this weekend in the National Football League playoffs.

The Union Plaza Race and Sports Book made the defending NFL champion Steelers 10-point favorites to defeat the Baltimore Colts. The Rams were a six-point pick over the St. Louis Cardinals, the Raiders a six-point favorite over the Cincinnati Bengals and the Vikings an eight-point choice over the Dallas Cowboys.

Chino High's Jimmy Love (23) gets up high in the air for two points in the Cowboys' game against University Friday night in the opening round of the Chino Invitational Basketball Tournament. Play continues tonight.

Chino only SAL winner

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Host Chino High was the only San Antonio League team to win a first round game in the Chino Christmas Basketball Tournament Friday night.

The Cowboys got by University, 68-61, and Hacienda League entry Alta Loma nipped Temple City, 56-54, but the other five valley teams in the tournament — all from the SAL — fell into the consolation bracket.

Edgewood beat Ganesha, 67-63, North of Riverside buried Upland, 79-45, Escondido clobbered Pomona, 80-53, Santa Ana topped Claremont, 59-48, and La Canada dumped Montclair, 60-43.

In the lone game not involving a valley team, Mt. Carmel of San Diego edged Cerritos, 74-72.

In today's championship bracket games, Alta Loma will meet Edgewood at 11 a.m., North will play Escondido at 2 p.m., Santa Ana will take on Mt. Carmel at 6 and Chino will meet La Canada at 9.

The consolation bracket games will be Temple City vs. Ganesha (9:30 a.m.), Upland vs. Pomona (12:30 p.m.), Claremont vs. Cerritos (3:30 p.m.) and University vs. Montclair (7:30 p.m.)

Chino overcame a height disadvantage to conquer the University Trojans. The tallest player on the Cowboy squad is center Jeff Scott at 6-2½, while the Trojan roster boasts five players — three of them starters — at 6-3 or over.

But the Cowboys responded by shooting from the outside, and they did it well. Scott was the leading scorer in the game with 22 points. He hit 10 of 17 field goal attempts, nearly all from outside the key.

"We were very patient and selected our shots well," said Chino coach Bob Elder after the game. "That's what made the difference."

The Cowboys received a great deal of help from their bench Friday night. Reserve guard Paul Iverson hit for 10 points, nine in the second half, while substitute forwards Roger Hairston and Barry Higgins added seven each.

Starting guard Joe Pickens tallied 11 for the Cowboys and forward Jimmy Love scored nine points and grabbed nine rebounds, high for the game.

Overall, University outrebounded Chino, 35-29. But the Cowboys held a big edge in turnovers, commiting just eight miscues to University's 16.

Chino hit 28 of 62 from the floor (45 per cent) and University made 29 of 54 field goal tries (54 per cent). But Chino went 12 for 19 from the foul line (63 per cent) while University took just four free throws, making three of them.

Alta Loma looked as though it would have an easy time with Temple City, as the Braves held an 18-6 lead after a quarter. But Temple City chipped eight points off the Braves' lead by halftime and drew to within two points, 45-43, after three quarters. Alta Loma managed to maintain that margin through the end of the game, as center Rich Davis led all scorers with 16.

Perhaps the surprise of opening round action was Mt. Carmel's win over defending tourney champ Cerritos. It is the first year of varsity play for the two-year-old school under head coach John Marincovich, who coached Garey High from 1965-68.

"We're improving steadily," said Marincovich. "The only game we played better than this one was a loss, so I was happy to beat Cerritos." Marincovich's Sun Devils have won four in a row for a 6-4 record.

Dick Nolan fired after eight seasons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dick Nolan was fired Friday as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers. The announcement was made by Louis G. Spadia, president and general manager of the National Football League club.

Nolan had served eight seasons as 49ers' head coach— longer than any previous San Francisco coach except the first one, Buck Shaw, who served nine years.

Nolan's over-all record was 54-53-5, but the 49ers were 5-9 in 1975 and 16-26 in the last three years.

Spadia said he has "a number of candidates in mind as replacements," but he mentioned no names. He said he hopes to sign a replacement for Nolan "as soon as practicably possible."

"It came as a shock," said Nolan, who was reluctant to comment when reached at his home in suburban Atherton. "It's part of this business. ...I've been in the business for over 22 years, but things like this never get any easier."

Nolan said he hoped to stay in professional fooball in some capacity, but noted, "Sometimes it's tough for a head coach to get a job as an assistant."

He had come under criticism of fans and some of the media during the season just ended because the 49ers' uncertain quarterback situation and inability to develop a running attack from what appeared to be an abundance of young talent.

Nolan came to the 49ers in 1968 and piloted the club to division championships in 1970-7172. In all three years the 49ers lost to Dallas in the playoffs, the first time in the opening round and the last two times for the National Conference championship.

A native of Pittsburgh, Nolan, 43, was a defensive back with the New York Giants from 1954-57 and a safety from 1959 through 1961. He spent 1958 with the Chicago Cardinals. He was a player-coach at Dallas under Tom Landry in 1962 before becoming a fulltime defensive coach with the Cowboys.

Fiesta Bowl number 13

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State, by winning the Fiesta Bowl over Nebraska Friday, extended the nation's longest major college football winning streak to 13 games.

The Sun Devils' 17-14 triumph gave them 12 victories this season. They defeated Hawaii to end the 1974 season.

Arkansas State, a major college team for the first time in 1975, has won 14 in a row, but three of those victories came in 1974, when Arkansas State was listed as a Division II team.

Corrigan, Williams pace Kings

OAKLAND (AP) — Mike Corrigan and Tom Williams scored second-period goals lead the Los Angeles Kings to a 4-2 National Hockey League victory over the California Seals Friday night.

Los Angeles scored in the first minute of the game with Bob Berry picking up his ninth goal of the season.

The Kings went ahead 2-0 at 4:53 as Butch Goring tallied his 10th of the year on an unassisted play, but California cut the lead less than a minute later when Bob Murdoch shot his 11th goal of the season.

Corrigan gave Los Angeles a 3-1 advantage at 2:57 of the second period, but Dave Gardner responded for California at 14:11 of the period to keep the Seals within a one-goal range.

Williams insured the Kings' victory with his eighth goal which came in the last minute of the second period.

Malovic paces SC

HONOLULU (AP) — Steve Malovic hit all eight of his shots from the floor to pace Southern California to an 88-68 victory over St. Peter's of New Jersey Friday night in the opening game of the Rainbow Classic.

Hawaii met Yale in the second game of the double header. Malovic, who scored 16 points, and forwards Bob Trowbridge and Greg White triggered USC to a commanding 45-30 halftime lead over the smaller St. Peter's team and the Trojans breezed to their eighth victory against a single loss.

Sciarra is feeling no pressure

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — John Sciarra scoffs at the suggestion that being an All-American quarterback places extra pressure on the UCLA star in the Rose Bowl.

"I don't feel any pressure. If anything, it gives me more confidence," said the senior who accounted for 1,907 total yards in leading the Bruins to a share of the Pacific-8 Conference title.

"There's more pressure from being in the Rose Bowl for the first time," added the 5-foot-10, 180-pound Sciarra.

Tradition appears to be on Sciarra's side to score an upset over top-ranked Ohio State in the New Year's Day classic.

Six previous All-American quarterbacks have appeared in the Rose Bowl. They posted a 6-1 record.

Only Minnesota's Sandy Stephens came up a loser, completing just two of 10 passes in a 17-7 defeat by Washington.

The next year, the 1962 bowl, Stephens guided the Gophers to a 21-3 victory over UCLA and was named the player of the game.

The other All-American quarterbacks who were winners are Heisman Trophy winners Gary Beban of UCLA and Jim Plunkett of Stanford, Bob Griese of Purdue, Randy Duncan of Iowa and Earl Morrall of Michigan State.

Beban was the hub in UCLA's last Rose Bowl game. He scored both touchdowns in 1966 as the Bruins ambushed national champion Michigan State 1412, a team they lost to 13-3 during the season.

Plunkett's performance in the 1971 bowl triggered a 27-17 upset of Ohio State that cost the Buckeyes a probable national title. He completed 20 of 30 passes for 265 yards and one touchdown.

Griese's 10-of-18 day for 139 yards helped Purdue edge Southern California in 1967 by a score of 14-13.

Duncan fired one touchdown pass and ran for another score as Iowa pounded California 3812 in 1959.

Morrall, the ageless Miami Dolphin, played in the Rose Bowl 20 years ago. He managed only four of 15 completions but it was his 10 yard pass that set up the winning field goal in the final seconds of s 17-14 victory over UCLA.

BIG OPENING CROWD — A part of the 54,648 fans at Santa Anita Friday afternoon watch the finish of the first race.

Big crowd for opener at 'Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Messenger Of Song turned on the speed in the stretch to outrun Willmar and capture the $33,300 Palos Verdes Handicap as Santa Anita opened its 77-day winter meeting Friday with a crowd of 54,648, biggest turnout in California horse racing this year.

The track said the crowd was its biggest opening day since 1964 when 70,023 jammed the stands for a Saturday starting date.

Jockey Jerry Lambert was aboard as Messenger Of Song took the first place money of $19,800 for besting five others in the six-furlong race for all ages.

Laffit Pincay Jr., seeking his seventh consecutive Santa Anita riding title, opened the meeting with a riding triple to take quick command of the jockey standings.

Lambert took Messenger of Song in hand after the 3-year-old colt broke stride early in the feature race.

The winner rallied in some traffic to get past leading High Rise in the final furlong then moved quickly to keep clear of Willmar's closing effort.

Messenger Of Song finished 1¾ lengths in front of Willmar and the second place finisher got across the finish a nose ahead of Rise High.

Despite a heavy weight of 125, the winner covered the distance in 1:08 3-5.

Messenger Of Song was the betting favorite and paid $5.60, $3.80 and $2.80.

Willmar, carrying 115 and ridden by Frank Olivares, paid $5.20 and $3.80 and Rise High, 118 with Sandy Hawley up, was third and returned $3.40.

Pincay started with $16.20 winner King Wako in the first race then brought in odds-on choice An Act for $3.40 in the second and won the sixth with Sir Jason for $7.20.

A $5 exacta ticket returned a $3,369 payoff, the highest exacta in Santa Anita history, in the ninth race as longshots Give 'm Time and Mr. Miller finished 1-2.

Garey wins in overtime

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

ORANGE — Substitute Herbie Banks sank the front end of a one-and-one with no time remaining in overtime at Orange High Friday night as Garey defeated El Modena 72-71.

The Vikings will face Costa Mesa, who over powered the Savanna Rebels and then hung on to win 74-69 in a 7 p.m. contest tonight.

Garey's main problem will be trying to control center Stan Miller, who tallied 27 points against the Rebels.

Garey won its game on Banks' free throw after he was fouled in a scuffle in the lane rebounding the ball as the horn went off. The overtime period was low scoring but had plenty of action and see-saw back in forth as if no one wanted the game.

El Modena almost won the game in regulation as with two seconds on the clock the Vanguards stole a Garey pass and threw a desperation shot at the basket that almost went in.

The entire game went like the overtime period as both teams raced up the court and fired at the hoop hoping for the ball to go through. However, as most of the night, both teams had trouble hitting the basket. Garey shot 38 per cent from the field while El Modena shot 41 per cent.

Garey dominated the first quarter as it lead 22-10 but it hit only four of 20 shots in the second half. El Modena thrived at the free throw line making nine of 16. Grey lost its big lead as they cooled off from the outside after hitting a blistering 55 per cent in the first quarter. El Modena tied the score just before half time at 31-31.

"We came to play ball in the first quarter," said Coach Mike Wells. "But we forgot to play the final three quarters the way we did the first one."

Garey began hurrying its outside shots while Modena worked its way in under the hoop for some easy shots. Garey also ran into foul trouble as all five starters had four or more fouls as they started the final quarter behind, 53-51, and the overtime period at 68-68.

Wells noted, "We had trouble containing the boards and at times we played in between speeds both defensely and offensively. At times we were not a complete team on offense.

Forward Gary Carpenter was the top scorer for the Vikings as he scored 21 points but Kent Jordan (16 points) and James Lofton (14 points) aided the Vikings throughout the last quarter and the overtime period.

"Carpenter had one of his better games even though he ran out of gas late in the game. Jordan came through for us down the stretch when we needed it despite throwing up some horrendous shots."

The Vanguards top scorer was Steve Trumbo who scored 14 points. Jim Shapiro, Richard Ruiz and Paul Belden each scored 11 points while quard Rick Werner chip in with 12 points. El Modena out rebounded Garey and its top rebounder was Ruiz with 12 rebounds.

Carpenter led the Vikings with 20 rebounds.

Pitt uses youth to whip Kansas

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Until two days ago, Pittsburgh coach Johnny Majors wasn't sure whether he'd start Robert Haygood or Matt Cavanaugh at quarterback in the Sun Bowl football game against Kansas.

"It was kind of like flipping a coin," Majors said of the two young men who are roommates. Haygood had started Pitt's first seven games and was injured. Cavanaugh then took over. Now he had both of them healthy.

"Really, Haygood hadn't lost his starting job, Majors said.

"I talked to both of them before the game and I asked if one of them got a hot hand, if the other would mind if I let him go all the way. They said for me to do what I thought was right."

He went with Haygood, a junior.

And Haygood responded with an inspired performance that triggered a 33-19 rout and won him honors as the game's outstanding player.

He scrambled for more than 100 yards on the ground, completed 8 of 11 passes, including one for a touchdown and deftly directed a wishbone attack that left the favored Kansas defenders if not bewitched then certainly bothered and bewildered.

"I'd practiced good,"

"I'd consistently worked hard all year. I had confidence in myself. You have to believe in yourself—and your teammates.

In all, the youthful Pitt team, which loses only four of 22 starters to graduation, ran up 372 yards rushing against an uncertain, often inept Jayhawk defense that had scored a regular-season 23-3 victory over mighty Oklahoma.

Tony Dorsett and Elliott Walker each scored two Pitt touchdowns under the brilliant sunshine that bathed this border city and served as the chief weapons on Haygood's offensive arsenal.

Dorsett rushed for 142 yards and Walker contributed 123, including a 60-yard touchdown burst in the first quarter.

Haygood, voted the outstanding player in the game, had 101 yards rushing, delayed his pitchouts from the wishbone until the last possible moment and often sent Walker a Dorsett on their way with one or two Jayhawk defenders dragging him too late to the ground. In his few passing attempts, he steadfastly stood his ground in a search for receivers and then, time after time, scrambled out of trouble with big gains.

Pittsburgh, which lost two of its last three regular season games when Haygood was out of action, ran up a 19-0 advantage at the half and coasted in from there.

Dorsett, who ran that mind-boggling 303 yards against Notre Dame, slashed his way to first-half touchdowns on runs of eight and two yards.

Cowboys advance

Ganesha's George Terry hit for 20 points, but the Giants were unable to overcome a six-point lead posted by Edgewood in the first quarter. Dave Zylstra of Edgewood scored a game-high 22 points.

North's James McCloud tossed in 33 points, 24 of them in the first half, to lead his Huskies past the Highlanders of Upland. North settled things by halftime, when it held a 44-22 lead. Freshman forward John Scheerer led Upland scorers with seven.

Pomona was likewise blown out by halftime, when the Red Devils trailed, 42-22. Guard Jim Middleton led Pomona with 11 points, but the tough Escondido squad had three players in double figures, including Tito Rendon with 20.

Claremont held a 12-8 lead after a quarter, but Santa Ana outscored the Wolfpack, 40-22, through the next two periods for the easy win. Center Derek Britton led the 'Pack with 12 points.

Forward Tom White scored 24 points to lead La Canada to its first win against eight losses, at the expense of Montclair. Forward Tom Long led the Cavaliers with 15.

Bonita wins on East tour

NORTH KINGSTOWN R.I. — Steve Sly's 25 points, 19 rebounds led Bonita High to a 74-65 triumph over North Kingstown High here Friday evening.

The 6-foot-3 senior went into the game averaging 22.5 points per game and 17 rebounds.

Aaron Bitran and David Drury added 13 points each, while Scott Nichols came off the bench to chip in 10 markers.

North Kingstown's pistol was Steve Smith sinking 20-foot jump shots most of the evening for his 22 points.

Bonita gained a 10-point margin after the first quarter with a 26-16 lead. The Bearcats increased their lead by two (42-30) at intermission. N. Kingstown made a run on the visitors, but Bonita countered with 12 straight points finishing the third stanza atop 64-45.

NK made a comeback attempt in the final period but could only cut the deficit by six losing 74-65.

The Bearcats (5-4) will not play today due to a CIF rule limiting teams to 25 games a season. Bonita is supposed to play three more pre-season in addition to 14 league games.

Bonita's next contest will be Monday at 5 p.m. (EST) against Bristol.

Assault on the Steel Curtain

Colts count on offense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Baltimore Colts plan to serve up their "shake and bake" offense for today's American Football Conference playoff menu with Pittsburgh, but the Steelers are aiming to keep the Colts on the back burner.

"Man, when our offense is cookin', we're shaking' and bakin.' We call ourselves the Shake-and-Bake Squad," says Colt wide receiver Glenn Doughty.

The Colts lost four of their first five games this season but made the National Football League's most abrupt turnaround with nine straight victories and the AFC East Division title. The Steelers won the Central Division crown.

Doughty's "bakers" feature former Penn State star Lydell Mitchell, who ran for 1,193 yards and caught 60 passes during the regular season.

"He does everything well; run, catch, block," says Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "They want to get the ball to Mitchell. Throw to him short. He's a good screen runner."

Mitchell became Baltimore's first 1,000-yard rusher this season. Franco Harris, Mitchell's close friend and former Penn State teammate, surpassed the 1,000-yard mark for the third time this year in his four-year career with Pittsburgh.

Mitchell, meanwhile, is well aware of the Steeler front four, which has a habit of playing best when it counts the most.

"We'll have to knowwhat we're doing on every play," he said. "We can't go into the game with a lot of fancy plans—reverses and options. We've got to do what got us here."

Pittsburgh's defense has had 43 quarterback sacks this season. Baltimore's defensive line, known as the "Looney Tunes," leads the league with 59.

"They're well-peopled. They have exceptional personnel. A physical team," Noll said.

"Trying to stay on top is the true test," he continued. "Some people have a strange picture. They think you reach a level and just stay there. They don't realize it's a heck of a job, week after week."

"I know we're playing a team that's favored to repeat as Super Bowl champions," Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda says.

"But I also know that if we're going to be in the Super Bowl, we have to beat the champions."

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl

Odds give small edge to Buffs

HOUSTON (AP) — The questionable status of Texas quarterback Marty Akins caused an odds switch Friday in favor of the Colorado Buffs for Saturday's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl football game against the Longhorns.

Texas had been a one-point favorite, but uncertainty over whether Akins will start, play only sparingly, or stay on the sidelines switched the narrow edge to Colorado.

Akins, called the best wishbone quarterback Texas has had, injured a knee in the Texas Christian game and had to be carried from the field after two brief appearances Nov. 28 against Texas A&M.

Coach Darrell Royal has indicated the uncertainty over Akins' status will continue until just before the 2:35 p.m. CST Astrodome kickoff that will be nationally televised except in the Houston area.

Coach Bill Mallory of Colorado says Texas, with Akins, probably is the best team in the Southwest Conference, where the Longhorns, A&M, and Arkansas finished in a three-way championship tie.

"They handled Arkansas with Akins in there and they just weren't the same without him against A&M," Mallory said.

Both Texas and Colorado finished the regular season at 9-2 and ranked No. 9 and No. 10, respectively, in the final regular season Associated Press poll. Both lost close games to Oklahoma. The Longhorns were rather dismal against Texas A&M and Colorado was manhandled by Nebraska.

Texas' third appearance in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl could be the first of a series featuring a Southwest Conference co-champion or runner-up.

The conference turned down a chance earlier this year to commit its runner-up, but some members who opposed the proposal reportedly changed their minds after the Big 10 and Pac-8 took actions that made more teams available for post-season classics.

Royal says the Colorado offense headed by quarterback David Williams offers major problems for the Longhorn defense. The Colorado offensive line averages more than 260 pounds, the biggest Texas has faced. And Colorado, finishing ahead of both Oklahoma and Nebraska, led the Big Eight in total offense.

Teaming with Williams will be Terry Kunz, a 211-pound fullback who once signed a letter of intent with Texas and who became Colorado's top single season fullback rusher this year with 882 yards.

Akins has been working with the second Texas unit, behind Ted Constanzo, a freshman who played only briefly during the regular season.

A year ago, the Longhorns had no contact during practice sessions before they were embarrassed by Auburn 27-3 in the Gator Bowl.

But Royal changed all that while preparing for Colorado. The Longhorns had a two-hour scrimmage Saturday, light scrimmages Sunday and Monday, and worked hard Tuesday and Wednesday.

Texas has a 12-8-2 bowl games record. Colorado is 4-4.

Telly's Pop heads field in Breeder's Championship

Heavily-favored Telly's Pop, co-owned by actor Telly Savalas and producer Howard Koch, heads the field of seven entered in Saturday's $50,000 California Breeders Championship Stakes at Santa Anita.

The Savalas-Koch horse is top-weighted at 126 pounds, the most he has ever carried, for the seven-furlong test restricted to 2-year-olds foaled in California. The winner's share of the purse is $34,250.

Francisco Mena will be in the saddle for Telly's Pop, winner of five of six lifetime starts and just under $250,000. Four of those victories came in stakes races, and he won three in a row to become the first winner of the Western Juvenile Triple Crown.

The only opponent given a chance to catch Telly's Pop is Stained Glass, co-owned by another actor, Rod Steiger. Laffit Pincay will ride Stained Glass, winner of three stakes but unraced since July because of an apparent shin injury.

At Calder, Saturday's feature is the first running of the $35,000-added Fiesta Handicap, in which Hasty Flyer, running as an entry with Super Sail, will carry top weight of 118 pounds. The 1 1-16 miles on the turf course is for 3-year-olds and up and has a field of 12 entered.

The $27,500 All Brandy Handicap at Laurel includes top-weighted Twixt carrying 123 pounds. The mile test is for fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and up.

Gallant Bob carries 127 pounds as top weight in the field of nine entered for the $25,000 Squires Handicap at Keystone. The six-furlong race is a for 3-year-olds and up and includes the entry of Plain Pete and Silver Doctor.

A field of six is entered in the $15,000 feature at the Fair Grounds with Colonel Power, under 125 pounds, the top weight.

Bar Bart carries 118 pounds as top weight in the six furlong, $8,500 feature at Suffolk.

Drag racing at OMS set for New Year's Day

Ontario Motor Speedway launches what is designed to become a new holiday sports tradition next week, with the inaugural running of the New Year's Day Drag Racing Classic, Jan. 1.

First big drag racing event of 1976, the meet is part of the new OMS monthly schedule of quarter-mile racing activity which is being promoted by two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Rodger Ward. The holiday classic will feature 240 mph fuel dragsters, six-second funny cars, Class BB funny cars and bracket races.

"A lot of enthusiasts have indicated a preference for a different type of sports attraction on New Year's Day," Ward explained. "So far, our response indicates we have made the right decision in scheduling the event at that time. It's already been nicknamed the 'Hangover Nationals' by some folks," he grinned.

The New Year's Day meet will mark the first appearance of fuelers and funny cars at the OMS facility since last October's Winston-NHRA World Finals, when Don Garlits set an all-time speed mark of over 250 mph and Don Prudhomme became the first funny car pilot to dip into the five second bracket.

OMS gates are scheduled to open at 9 a.m. New Year's Day with racing set to begin at noon. General admission is $6.

Wings get snowed out

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings called off their Friday afternoon game with the New York Islanders because of a snowstorm in the Detroit area.

There was no immediate word on whether the National Hockey League game would be rescheduled.

Michigan is best draw

SHAWNEE MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The University of Michigan drew the six largest crowds of the 1975 college football season and set all-time attendance marks by drawing 689,146 to its home games and averaging 98,449 per contest.

The biggest 1975 turnout was 105,543 for the Michigan-Ohio State game at Ann Arbor, Mich., a national regular-season record for the 28 years of official National Collegiate Athletic Association attendance figures.

Michigan ended Ohio State's streak of 14 consecutive national attendance championships in 1972. The Buckeyes regained the crown in 1973 but Michigan won it back in 1974.

Ohio State was the 1975 runner-up with an average of 87,856. Third once again was Nebraska, which averaged 76,195.

MICHIGAN PYRAMID — Beach bunny Holley Meryl tops a pyramid of Michigan football players at Miami Beach. The Wolverines are more or less getting ready for their Orange Bowl date with Okla.

Traveling Broncos visit Biola tonight

LA MIRADA — Cal Poly's traveling basketball team will remain on the road this evening when the Broncos visit Biola College here tonight (8 p.m.) in their 10th consecutive road game.

However, Coach Don Hogan's team has only one more road contest on Jan. 9 at Cal State Dominguez Hills before playing the home opener on Jan. 10 against the Athletes in Action.

Due mainly to the hazards of the road, Poly takes a 3-6 season record into tonight's contest. Meanwhile, Biola is 4-4 after losing to Occidental, 49-48, Tuesday night.

Even though Poly plays on a higher level and faces tougher competition, the Broncs should know better than to underestimate Biola.

Cal State Los Angeles found out the hard way last week when Biola posted a 94-88 upset over the Diablos.

Poly also split a pair with the Eagles last season. Biola won, 83-80, here with the Broncs taking the second game, 71-70, in Pomona.

Coach Howard Lyon will probably start a lineup of forwards Rob Webb (6-6) and Jim Worthy (6-4½), center Tim Warkentin (6-9) and guards Jim Tiefenthaler (6-5) and Jim Christensen (5-10).

Webb was the main force in the win over Cal State L.A. by making 11 of 15 from the floor for 23 points. Worthy tallied 30 last year in Biola's win over Poly.

Hogan will probably start his regular lineup of forwards Paul Newton and Jack Gamulin, center Mark Bernhard and guards Joe Sills and Tom Ispas.

Sills is Poly's top scoring threat with a 23.2 average followed by Gamulin at 19.8. Nobody else is in double figures. Sills is shooting at a .925 clip (37-of-40) from the foul line while Gamulin is connecting on 53.1 per cent of his field goals.

Newton is Poly's top rebounder with 9.9 per game while Ispas is the playmaker with a 4.3 average.

L.L. looking for managers

The San Dimas Little League has reduced the number of Major League teams to eight and increased its Minor League teams by two as well as dropping all but two managers from last year.

According to league president Joe Barnett, the league felt that other fathers should have a chance to manage their sons as previous managers have done.

Applications are now being taken for team managers. The League is looking for people with experience who will be active in Little League affairs. Preference is given to parents of children playing in the league.

Further information may be obtained by calling Leo Heide at 599-4754.

Ron Hodges heads L.L. District 20

Ron Hodges, former president of the La Verne Lietle League officially resigned at the board of directors meeting enabling him to fill the position of District Administrator (District 20).

The appointment made by Western Regional Director Tom Boyle, will become effective January 1. The installation will be January 10 at the home of Ron Lapere, outgoing District Administrator.

Hodges has been with the loop for six years, five of which were served on the board and three as president.

Farm League Vice-President Aaron Burchard was chosen to serve as president for the remainder of the 75-76 season.

Leopards test Chico field

CHICO — La Verne College's basketball team opens play here in the Chico Invitational in the final game of the first round at 8:45 p.m. Sunday against host Chico State.

The eight-team three-day tournament will continue through Tuesday night.

Whittier opens the event against Humboldt State at 3 p.m. Sunday followed by Sacramento State vs. Alaska at 4:45 p.m. Wayland Baptist (Tex.) and Macalester (Minn.) meet at 7 to complete the first round pairings.

The Leos will play the winner of loser of the Wayland-Macalester game on Monday.

"We've won only one game in two years at Chico," reminded La Verne Coach Art Bias. "But it's been a good experience and we've always come back home and played well."

La Verne, 4-4 after Tuesday's 76-54 loss to the University of San Diego, will return home to host the University of Alaska on Saturday, Jan. 3, in the Supertent.

Meanwhile, Claremont-Mudd will be playing in the Color Country Classic in Cedar City, Utah on Monday and Tuesday.

Coach Dave Wells' Stags will play host Southern Utah at 9 p.m. Monday following the 7 p.m. contest between Redlands and Westminster (Utah).

Free speech finally comes to rescue big-time sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that a professorial, pipe-smoking arbitrator named Peter Seitz has broken chains restricting the personal freedom of baseball players, it is time that another such emancipator come to the rescue of the First Amendment in big time sports.

When will sports people— along with the rest of society— be allowed to express an honest opinion without fear of fine and suspension? When will they be awarded the old American luxury of "freedom of speech?"

They don't have it now. The major sports establishments operate under a rigid, inflexible rule best exemplified by the three monkeys: See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil.

When Seitz cast the vote that turned pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally into free agents this week, he struck perhaps a lethal blow to baseball's archaic reserve clause which binds a player to one team for life—or until he is sold or traded.

Twenty-four hours after this staggering decision, it was announced that Ralph Wilson, owner of the Buffalo Bills, had been fined $5,000 by the National Football League for criticizing an official. Three executives of rival clubs were fined for agreeing with him.

All Wilson said was that he got a "rotten call" in the Dec. 7 Buffalo-Miami game, won by Miami 31-21. Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Los Angeles Rams, quickly jumped in with an assent.

"When a man gets robbed like that, he must give me part of the action," Rosenbloom said, offering to pay half of whatever fine Wilson might receive. "I have lost two major playoff games because of bad officiating."

Al Davis, general manager of the Oakland Raiders, said, "We have to get rid of the incompetent officials in this league." Bud Grant, coach of the Minnesota Vikings, called the NFL "a multi-million dollar operation being handled by amateurs."

All were disciplined by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for actions detrimental to the "integrity of the game."

Rozelle has no lien on such ridiculous, outmoded reaction. Baseball, basketball, tennis, golf and even the Olympics have been similarly quick to crack down on anyone—owner or player—with the temerity to express a derogatory opinion affecting the sport.

You can knock the President and Congress. You can write a nasty letter about the garbage pick-up or even chew out the boss. But don't say anything about sport. It is sacrosanct, untouchable.

Rigid, inflexible rule . . . see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil . . .

Any sort of criticism is construed as "damaging to the integrity" or "contrary to the best interests" of the game. Empty phrases when measured by man's innate right under the Constitution to say what he thinks, so long as it isn't libelous.

Millions who saw the particular play which aroused Wilson's ire—an apparent fumble by Miami's Mercury Morris and a recovery by Buffalo's John Skorupan—also thought head linesman Jerry Bergman blew it.

They were further incensed— as was Wilson—when Bergman tacked on a 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against the Bills because he was accidentally elbowed by another Bills player who was scrambling for the ball.

Many fans charge that officiating in the NFL this season has been atrocious—most flagrantly bad in years. Fans can talk about it. News writers can report it. But if someone in the league lets out a yelp, there goes a stiff fine.

Two years ago Bud Grant was fined, during Minnesota's preparations for the Super Bowl in Houston, because he criticized his team's dressing room facilities. He didn't like sparrows flitting around the shower rooms.

Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler set Leo Durocher down for a year in 1948 because he didn't approve of Leo's associates. Joe Namath was forced to give up an East Side lounge he owned back in 1969 because the NFL didn't like the people who bought drinks there.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fined owner Charles Finley of the Oakland A's in 1972 because Finley objected to Kuhn's interference in his contract dealings with holdout pitcher Vida Blue—and said so.

Dave Hill, a pro golfer, didn't like the Hazeltine course on which the U. S. Open was played in Chaska, Minn., in 1970. He compared it to a cow pasture and said a monkey could play it.

Joseph Dey, then the golf commissioner, fined him $150. Dey said it was "demeaning to the club." Other golfers may have agreed with Hill but discreetly kept quiet.

Tennis players, of whom fiery Ilie Nastase is the greatest offender, are constantly being chastised for raising a voice on bad line calls. While such calls make up their bread and butter, they are expected to bite their tongue and take it—for the good of the sport.

Commissioner Larry O'Brien of the National Basketball Association has set up a special "beef council" to study coaches' complaints, the idea being to avoid outbursts on the floor and airing dirty linen in post-game interviews.

Ignoring the obvious violations of a man's right to express himself, the establishment's built-in restraints threaten to turn athletes into dull, plastic automatons bereft of human frailties and emotion. In so doing, they also are bleeding the sport of its dash and color, making it a box office dud.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER
Q. "HOW CAN A CAT SEE IN THE DARK?"
LYNN MACLER ALBANY, NY
A. CATS CAN SEE BETTER IN DIM LIGHT THAN WE CAN BECAUSE THE PUPILS OF THEIR EYES CAN OPEN MUCH WIDER AND RECEIVE MORE LIGHT THAN OUR EYES CAN.
DICK ROPERO
12/27
© 1975 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

You may have heard that cats can see in the dark because they have special kinds of eyes.

It is true that cats can see much better than we do in dim light. But cats cannot really see in total darkness.

In bright sunlight, the pupils of a cat's eyes become narrow slits that shut out much of the glare. At night, they widen to great circles, almost as large as the entire eye, to let in all the light there is.

Inside a cat's eye is a special mirrorlike material that helps make the eye extra-sensitive to light by collecting the dim rays of light and reflecting them back to the retina, where the act of seeing begins.

When you see a cat's eyes glowing beside the road at night, it is because the mirrorlike material is reflecting the light from your flashlight or the headlights of a car.

Many animals active at night, such as deer and owls, are able to see well in dim light for the same reasons cats can.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, Dec. 28

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should do very well today in a situation where you share an interest, especially if it's a business arrangement.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is one of those days where it's better for you to team up. You'll operate more effectively in double-hitch.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Since you're a very good innovator today, try your hand at some of those do-it-yourself projects you've been eyeing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Go where the action is today. You'll be flattered at being the center of attraction.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you'll crave the company of others, especially in your own surroundings. Call a few friends. Ask them over for some cheer and conversation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A good day to take care of paperwork you might be behind on. Write those letters you owe, or just bring your books up to date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The Christmas season is not over! Don't be surprised if someone pops up with an unexpected gift. They've been holding it until they see you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid saddling yourself with definite plans today. The things that occur on the spur-of-the-moment will be the most fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're highly perceptive regarding business matters tody. If you see an opportunity to make a profit, take advantage of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some information will be passed on to you by a friend today. It's something you're not familiar with, but it warrants a good, hard look.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be afraid of challenging situations today. You still have the edge on your opposition.

PICES (Feb. 20-March 20) The good news from a distance you've been hoping for may come through today. Leave word where you can be reached, or check in frequently.

Your Birthday, Dec. 28

The coming year will be a very active one for you. You'll make a lot of new scenes and meet a lot of new people. Short trips are also a possibility.

Seal sales down

The 69th Christmas Seal campaign is about $25,000 down from last year's campaign at this time, according to Dr. Ralph C. Jung, president of the Lung Association of Los Angeles County.

With a goal of $1,450,000 to support the many services the association provides, only $750,000 has been received to date, he added.

The Christmas Seal campaign, originally designed to combat tuberculosis, has been expanded to include the other diseases of the lungs such as emphysema, asthma and chronic bronchitis because of the increasing incidence of these diseases.

This year's seals were designed by 54 children between the ages of 6 and 12 in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam.

After contests in schools, the committee selected paintings of what Christmas meant to them by 34 girls and 20 boys. The original paintings are now on display in Washington, D.C.

ARMOR C. SMITH

Pomona exec honored

Armour C. Smith, owner of the May Transfer & Storage Co. in Pomona, is the recipient of an industry recognition award for four years' service on the insurance committee of the Mayflower Warehousemen's Association.

The framed-certificate presentation was made by Gordon D. Masters, president of the association, during a western district meeting in Los Angeles.

Smith is president-elect of the 750-member association and will assume the presidency at its annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., in March.

Visiting nurses group re-elects Lewis to post

Richard B. Lewis of West Covina was re-elected president of the board of directors of the Visiting Nurses Association of the East San Gabriel Valley at the association's annual meeting in West Covina.

Re-elected as officers with Lewis were Mrs. Bruce Steele of Covina, vice president; Floyd Thaller, La Puente, secretary; and Jack Burke, West Covina, treasurer.

Directors also re-elected were John Bage, Mrs. David Brode, John Vilter and James Wilson.

The VNA provides skilled nursing and ancillary health care services to patients in their homes. Founded in 1956, the agency is certified by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and is licensed by the State Department of Health.

What's going on around here...

POMONA POLICE INSTALLED — Two members of the Pomona Police Officer's Association have been installed as board members of the Inland Chapter of the Peace Officers Research Association of California (PORAC).

Installed to the board were Alan Buche as vice president and Richard TeFank as director.

In addition, Richard Shaurette, outgoing president of the Pomona Police Officer's Association, was named chairman of the PORAC's state committee to develop labor relations programs for police associations.

GARDEN STATE MEDIATION SESSION — Some 20 employes of the Garden State Paper Co. in Pomona recently completed a seminar in labor-management relations conducted by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Shop stewards and foremen from the company attended the seven sessions of the seminar at Cal Poly's Kellogg West.

Topics covered included collective bargaining, company-union relationships, employe responsibilities, communications, grievances, shop rules and discipline.

LA VERNE SUBDIVISION — A 20-unit subdivision is being planned on the west side of Bradford Street north of the Live Oak Wash in La Verne.

The City Council approved a request to change the property from agricultural to a planned residential zone requested by the Hughes Development Co. of Glendora.

Hughes already has submitted plans for the development of the 6.75-acre parcel. The city's Planning Department says the proposed development is in line with La Verne's general plan of growth.

Poly students hustle to get Rose Parade float ready

Time is running short for the students of the California State Polytechnic universities in Pomona and San Luis Obispo, as they complete major construction on their 28th consecutive entry for the 1976 Tournament of Roses Parade.

Since 1949, students of the two universities have combined efforts to annually enter a float in the Rose Parade, in an attempt to promote their growing campuses.

Because the float is a student-run project and the basic concept is for a continuous and diversified "hands-on" educational experience, both universities officially and purposely keep a low profile, offering little more than a nod of approval.

All official university help comes through Rose float staff adviser and alumni director Ron Simons. Simons has been directly involved with every Cal Poly Rose float since he enrolled as a student in 1959.

The first rose floats at Cal Poly involved only a handful of people and construction material was "borrowed" from their families and local firms. Today, more than 300 students became actively involved with the float, and all construction materials are donated by large corporations and businesses.

Actual preparation for the float begins in May, when the student Rose Float Committee solicits design ideas from the university community and surrounding cities. These ideas are student-judged, with the winning idea being refined into a workable design.

"High Hopes" is Cal Poly's theme for this year's float entry, and is characterized by a droopy-eyed Basset Hound with high hopes of sneaking a lick of his daydreaming master's ice cream cone. Animation is always a prime design consideration and major tournament attraction.

The unique aspect of Cal Poly's floral displays is that more than 90 per cent of the flowers are grown by the students themselves. Thousands of student hours are spent preparing the 250,000 to 300,000 flower blossoms appearing on the float each year.

Excess flower production is one of the enterprising ex-

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

"The price of window glass has advanced. Wouldn't that give you a pane?" wrote the Editor of The Pomona Daily Review in August 1904. — But don't scoff at that classic example of Turn-of-the-Century humor. Behind it all was a serious intent on the part of our early day Pomona editor to call attention to and view with alarm the ever increasing cost of living the Twentieth Century was ushering in. For in those earlier times in Pomona there was no such thing as the easy come easy go attitude toward the value of a dollar that is so prevalent today. No, no, a thousand time no! Our thrifty 1904 forefathers, ably led by that Review editor, were perhaps the most cost conscious individual this city has ever known. And here are two examples from out of our distant past to prove my point.

There was the citizen who took his pen in hand and wrote a letter to the editor complaining about the ever increasing cost of street maintenance.

"The city is now paying $1 a day for the water used by each sprinkling wagon," he wrote. "There are four wagons. That makes a total daily expense for water alone of $4. On the basis of 26 working days, that's $104 a month."

And then there was the August 9, 1904, Review editorial which read:

"The Pomona City Trustees are sitting as a board of equalization upon the city assessor's assessments and are allowed by state law to draw $5 a day while they sit. Someone suggested today that it might be cheaper if they stood."

Old Christmas card uncovered

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

QUESTION: The Christmas card pictured above was recently uncovered along with a variety of other cards including Easter, Thanksgiving, St. Patrick's, romantic, birthday, floral best wishes, and even old Valentines. These originally belonged to my father who operated a store during the early 1900s. The enclosed card is timely — and colorful. It has an intricate lacy edge, and as you can see, old St. Nick appears to be hand-decorated, with many gold highlights. The only identifying mark on this unused card is a notation on its backside "Made in Germany." I would like to know if this card as well as the others, are of interest to collectors today? If so, what value do you place upon the enclosure? F.S. (Southeast)

ANSWER: Your beautifully-colored Christmas card is worth around $5-$8. Like your other mementos of years gone by, collectors have discovered they are fascinating to collect, hence values continue to increase steadily with each passing year, and the earlier examples are becoming more and more difficult to find. To learn more about the value of your collection, go through some of the many antique trade publications available. These can be found on newstands or at your public library.

Christmas cards first became popular in Europe during the mid-1800s. The earlier cards were commercially printed and hand-colored. As color printing processes advanced in Germany, thousands of greeting cards like yours were designed especially for sale in the

Shelby Lyman on chess

The shoe's on the other foot

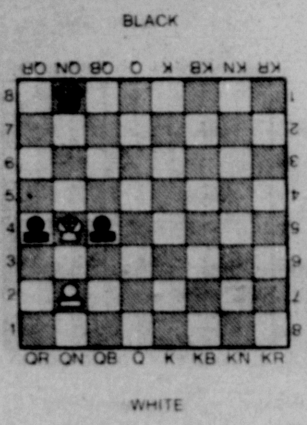
There has been no greater child prodigy of chess than Sammy Reshevsky, who, like Capablanca, learned the game at 4 years of age by watching his father play.

When he was 9 years old (1920), he embarked on a world tour, in which he took on and beat dozens of adults simultaneously.

How ironic that the same Reshevsky should find himself in Moscow at age 45, again playing an exhibition, but now against opponents 8-12 years of age, members of the Young Pioneers.

And Reshevsky barely emerged with a slight plus score! (Normally grandmasters win 90 per cent and more of such games.)

We are told that Reshevsky would have fared much worse, but for his determined ability to prolong the exhibition until six in the morning. His victories came "mainly at the expense of the Pioneers, who had been ordered home."



Which pawn should white take?

Hint and explanation: Black has a surprise move if white captures the wrong pawn. Remember that (often) rook pawns do not win.

The New World Junior Champion

Previously, with a touch of chauvinism, we celebrated the second place finish of USA's Larry Crhistianson in the XLV World Junior Championship, held in Tjentishte, Yugoslavia.

But what about the first place player, Valery Chekhov, of the USAR? Another participant, Jonathan Mestel of England, who finished third, one-half point behind Christianson (who trailed Chekhov by the same margin) had the following to say about Valery:

"His victory was deserved, he played steady throughout . . . Valery was well prepared for the tournament and his second, Anatole Bishovski, was exceedingly dedicated."

Christianson, in fact, missed the title by a hair. In his game with Chekhov, he had achieved the following 'winning' position at move 40, but played imprecisely and only drew.

White has an edge!

Solution: White must play 1. KxRP to win. If instead 1. KxBP, Black's 1 . . . P-R6 gains the draw. For after PxP, the white pawn will have become a non-winning rook pawn.

Firm given court OK to close stores

NEW YORK (AP) — The W.T. Grant Co. says it has won court approval to close another 133 stores after Christmas as part of the retail chain's reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws.

"This planned reduction will establish for Grant an operating base of 359 stores located in 14 mid-Atlantic and Northeastern states," Robert H. Anderson, Grant chairman, said Monday.

Prior to filing for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, the chain had 1,074 stores in 40 states. The reorganization plan has included three previous rounds of store closings, all approved by the U.S. District Court here.

The states where Grant will continue to operate are: Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Some of the 133 stores to be shut down will hold close-out sales in the early part of January.

Students hustle to finish float

amples of the students' project. The excess flower harvest is sold to other float builders, helping to offset the high cost of constructing Cal Poly's float.

Financing has always been a major concern for the Cal Poly float builders. Though much of the construction material is donated and all of the student help is volunteer, costs for Cal Poly's float still run about $12,000 annually. This cost, however, is opposed to the $60,000 post before moving on. Afterwards, an observing police officer said he should cite the students for their accident, but feared being laughed off the force if he had to report it was done by a giant pink hippopotamus.

Story by Charles Basham

The most tedious and important step of final production is hand-decorating the float with tens-of-thousands of flower blossoms. According to the tournament rules, all external surfaces must be covered with some form of natural vegetation. Besides flowers, several floats will use many of the different varieties and colors of tree bark, seeds and leaves available.

To provide a surface for gluing on the vegetative decorations, the 14 tons of steel framework and molded chicken-wire are sprayed with a latex, to form a "cocoon." Besides providing a working surface for flower decoration, this skin conceals the 1,000 feet of hydraulic hosing and electrical circuits used to create the life-like animation of the float characters. When dry, this skin is painted according to the final color-design specifications, providing a near-perfect color guide for the many flower blossoms soon to be pasted on.

In the next days, activity around the float will grow to a construction price tag similar commercial floats sport. Each university's student body government budgets about $4,000 annually, but the remainder has to be generated by the rose float students themselves.

Student float chairman Bob Evans described the float as a "self-motivating project," where students can learn and perform several different functions, and see the immediate results of their efforts.

The finishing touches to Cal Poly's float are added in Pasadena's Rosemont Pavilion a few days before the parade. The float is carefully driven from Cal Poly's rose float lab to Pasadena during the early morning hours the day before Christmas.

More than once the float has trimmed low-hanging tree branches and developed flat tires almost impossible to change. Once it shaved off a metal streetlight standard when the driver took a turn too sharply.

The quick-acting students immediately broke out the handly welding torches, repaired and even repainted the feverish high as the students work 18-hour shifts in every 24-hour period.

During the final hours before parade time, everyone checks and rechecks his work. The tournament judges also are making the rounds, determining the winners of their coveted awards.

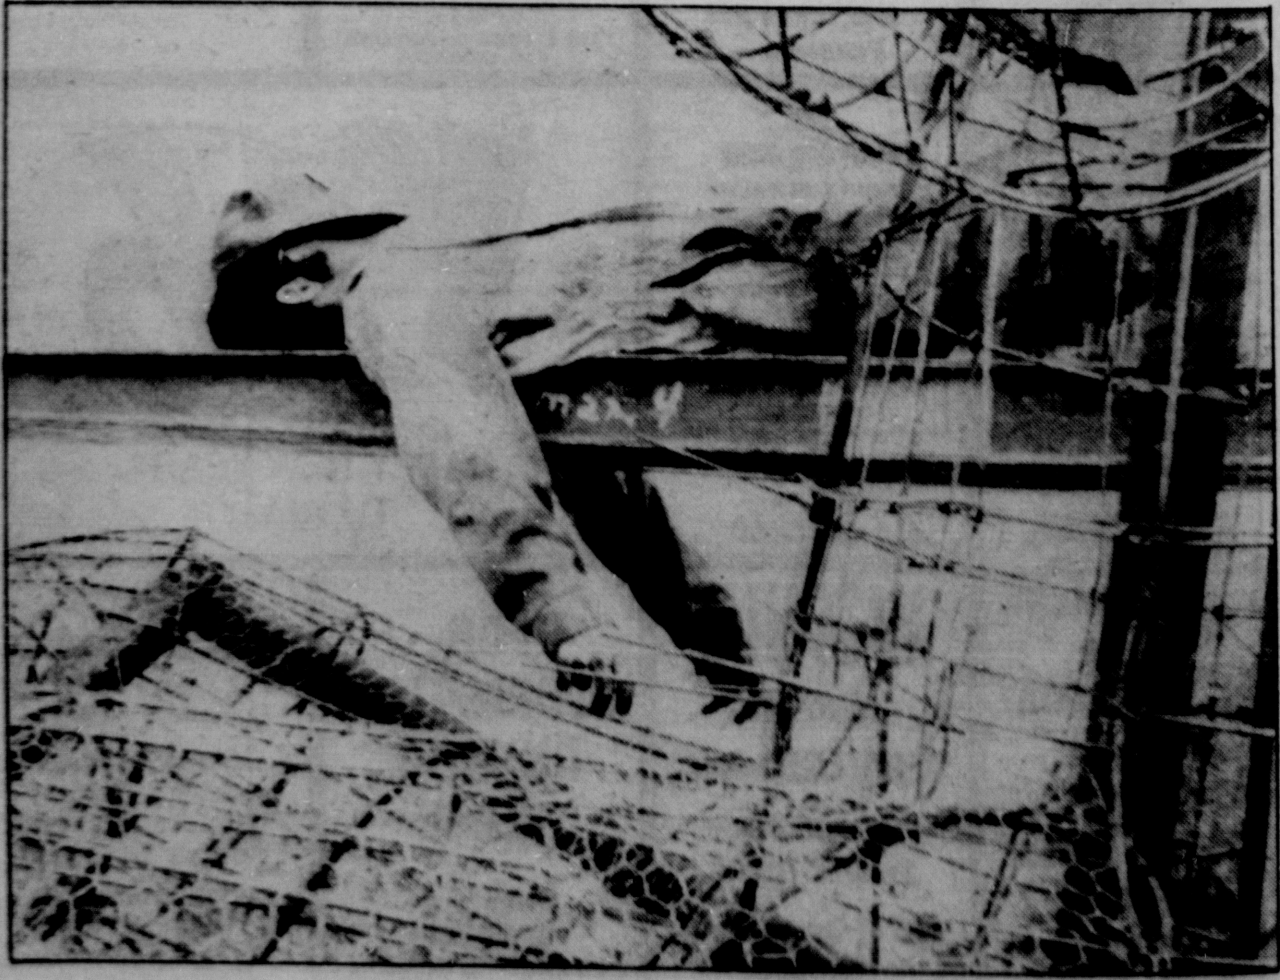
Simons said, "although the students hope to capture one of these awards, each is satisfied with the little reward they get when they step back and realize the completed float. For all of these students it represents an accumulation of a year's hard work and more than 28,000 volunteer hours."

Valerie Thomas, right, is assisted by an unidentified volunteer in gluing fresh flower blossoms on the float, a last-minute job to insure the beauty of the exhibit.

ON THE COVER

"High Hopes" is the theme (top photo) for the Cal Poly Rose Float entry in the 1976 Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day. The animated float depicts a hopeful basset hound eyeing his master's ice cream cone. Women welders Joan Stamp, left, and Carrie Hataluk (bottom photo) put finishing touches on a float section, proving that there's no sexism associated with this Cal Poly project.

About 250,000 flowers are grown and harvested for the Cal Poly float by students on the Pomona and San Luis Obispo campuses. The students sell extra flowers to other float builders to help defray the cost of the float.



Mike Riley grabs a quick nap while working on the Cal Poly float. Students are working around the clock to finish the entry in time for the parade.

Fly, Robin, Fly

What we have this week is a great big group with a great big hit on a teeny tiny song. This ten-piece outfit works and lives in Munich, Germany, but has broken with the contemporary music being ground out in Germany these days. That's the reason Silver Convention's first big album is such a success in the U.S. Two singles have already been spun off the LP. They are "Fly, Robin, Fly" and "I Like It". A great deal of the group's musical cachet comes from producer Michael Kunze and composer-arranger Sylvester Levay, who also should get most of the credit for developing a new school of musicians in Munich. Levay is also the co-author of today's lovely hit song. You're going to be hearing lots more from this group, so remember the name: Silver Convention.

Hanoi expecting favors from U.S.?

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam wants U.S. aid, diplomatic recognition and trade as well as help in developing offshore oil fields, according to a congressional delegation that returned from Hanoi.

But the delegation that went to Hanoi to recover bodies of three Americans said North Vietnamese officials did not list its desires in any way as a price for turning over more American remains.

"They wouldn't have given us the three bodies if that was true," said Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss., leader of the group. "We had already talked to them at Paris ... and told them that chances for aid were not very good."

Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, D-N.Y., said the way the North Vietnamese officials put it was that "we've made some gestures and now you should make some gestures."

Montgomery said the North Vietnamese did not indicate how much U.S. aid they would like to get, and gave few details on the other areas in which they would like to restore relations with the United States.

The congressmen took with them to Hanoi a message from President Ford saying "we are prepared to reciprocate gestures of good will." "We are prepared to look to the future, not to the past, in our dealings with them," Ford said in the message.

Gilman and Montgomery said the officials in Hanoi appeared particularly interested in U.S. development of North Vietnam's offshore oil deposits.

Montgomery also said the North Vietnamese gave no indication how many more Americans missing from the Vietnam war they might be able to account for or how many more remains they might be able to turn over. In addition, the officials said there are no missing Americans alive in North Vietnam.

Montgomery and other members of the group were optimistic after a meeting in Laos that substantial efforts also will be made there to find and turn over remains of missing Americans.

But for Cambodia "we just got no answers at all," Montgomery said.

Montgomery, who is chairman of the Select House Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia, said the delegation will submit a written report to Ford, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and to Congress.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the value of our lovely CYBIS porcelain "Scarlet"? Its condition is proof. D.A.H. (Midwest)

ANSWER: The current market value of your porcelain sculpture is around $1,200.

Of interest to CYBIS collectors is an exciting new publication just released by Crown Publishers, New York ($5.95), which is titled POEM FOR CHILDREN AND OTHER PEOPLE, and edited by George Hornby. It is an anthology of favorite poems with ninety CYBIS procelains comprising the illustrations — forty in full color. The combination forms a communion of arts that any age group will enjoy.

QUESTION: While in the military in Germany, my wife and I roamed the countryside on weekends in search of old glass Christmas tree ornaments — mostly birds — that can be clipped onto a tree branch. Some are silvered to reflect light, others are figurals, and then there are about a dozen of the heavy blown glass balls. Since returning to the United States, we have searched for more information on these from time to time, but so far have been unsuccessful. Do you have any information? R.N. (West)

ANSWER: The first written record of glass Christmas tree balls being produced in Germany was in 1848, when a Lauscha glassblower produced six dozen tree ornaments in different sizes. The weighty glass balls however, are known to have been made as early as the 1820s. They are known as "kugelns" and many were "silvered," and were fastened to wooden crowns and hung from the ceiling during the holidays.

In 1867, a gas works was built in Lauscha — the center for these ornaments — making it possible for glassblowers to produce large thin walled bubbles of glass. And within a short period of time they were producing a variety of shapes — including tree ornaments. Over the years, Lauscha glassblowers reproduced every conceivable fruit, vegetable, animal, storybook character as well as angels and the Christ Child. And then there were little houses, churches and musical instruments. But the most enduruing of all ornaments made in Germany are the colorful glass birds with a long spun glass tail. The earliest examples hung from a delicate glass hook which extended upward from its back, but by the turn of the 20th century, glassblowers had borrowed the clip from the clip on candle holder of the period — and this was glued to the underside of the bird.

Dress it yourself

Flavored, dressed-up rice dishes are a great boon to a varied menu, but do it yourself and save a bit instead of resorting to ready-made mixes. Just adding a boullion cube instead of salt makes a major difference, and adding mushrooms, onions, chopped peppers, etc. will work wonders for you. — D.X., Akron, O.

The pipeline

Alaska's problems: just growing pains?

By The Associated Press

The Alaska pipeline meanders across the state like a giant snake for 800 miles from Prudhoe Bay on the arctic shore to the ice-free port of Valdez in the south.

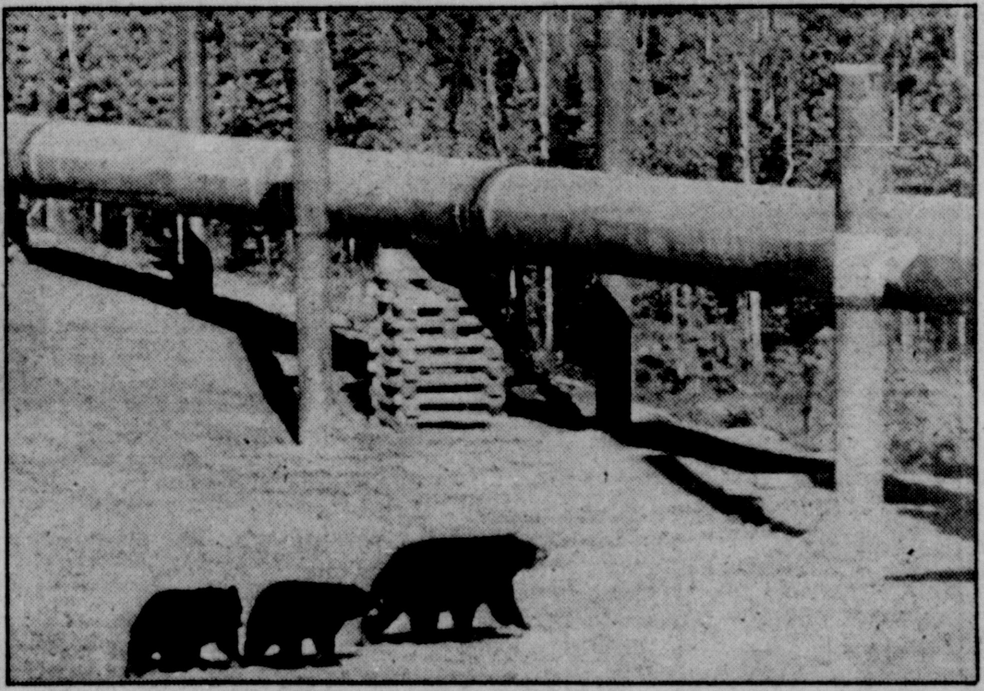
The $6.4-billion project was started in April 1974 by the Alyeska Pipeline Supply Co. and is the largest privately financed construction project in history. It is 40 per cent complete, and by mid-1977 shipment of oil at a rate of 1.2 million barrels a day is expected to begin.

The project has not been without controversy. Environmentalists worried that the pipeline would slice across caribou migration paths. As a concession to them, the line, which is strong enough to withstand earthquakes and the severe extremes of temperatures, has been elevated to permit bear and deer to roam by underneath.

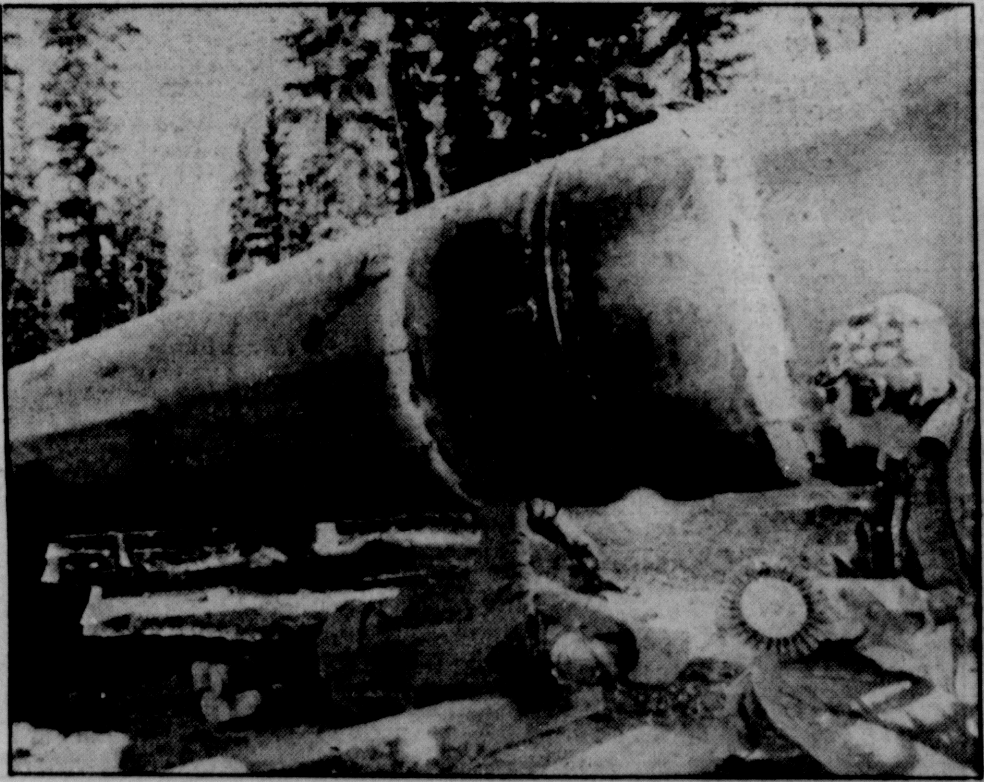
The pipeline has created new jobs and brought in big money for the state. The population of Fairbanks is up from 19,000 in 1973 to 33,000. Construction workers have been earning as much as $1,360 a week. Bank deposits in the state climbed from $656 million in 1974 to $902 million a year later.

But, the boom has also caused a severe housing shortage, high rents and soaring prices for everything. The cost of living in Anchorage for a low-income family is 49 per cent above the national average. There's been a 45 per cent increase in criminal complaints over the last year and unfamiliar, blatant prostitution on Fairbanks streets.

Oil boom and pipe line construction has brought problems, "but they are problems of growth," said C.W. Baer of the Fairbanks Chamber of Commerce. "They are a hell of a lot better than the problems of a dying community."

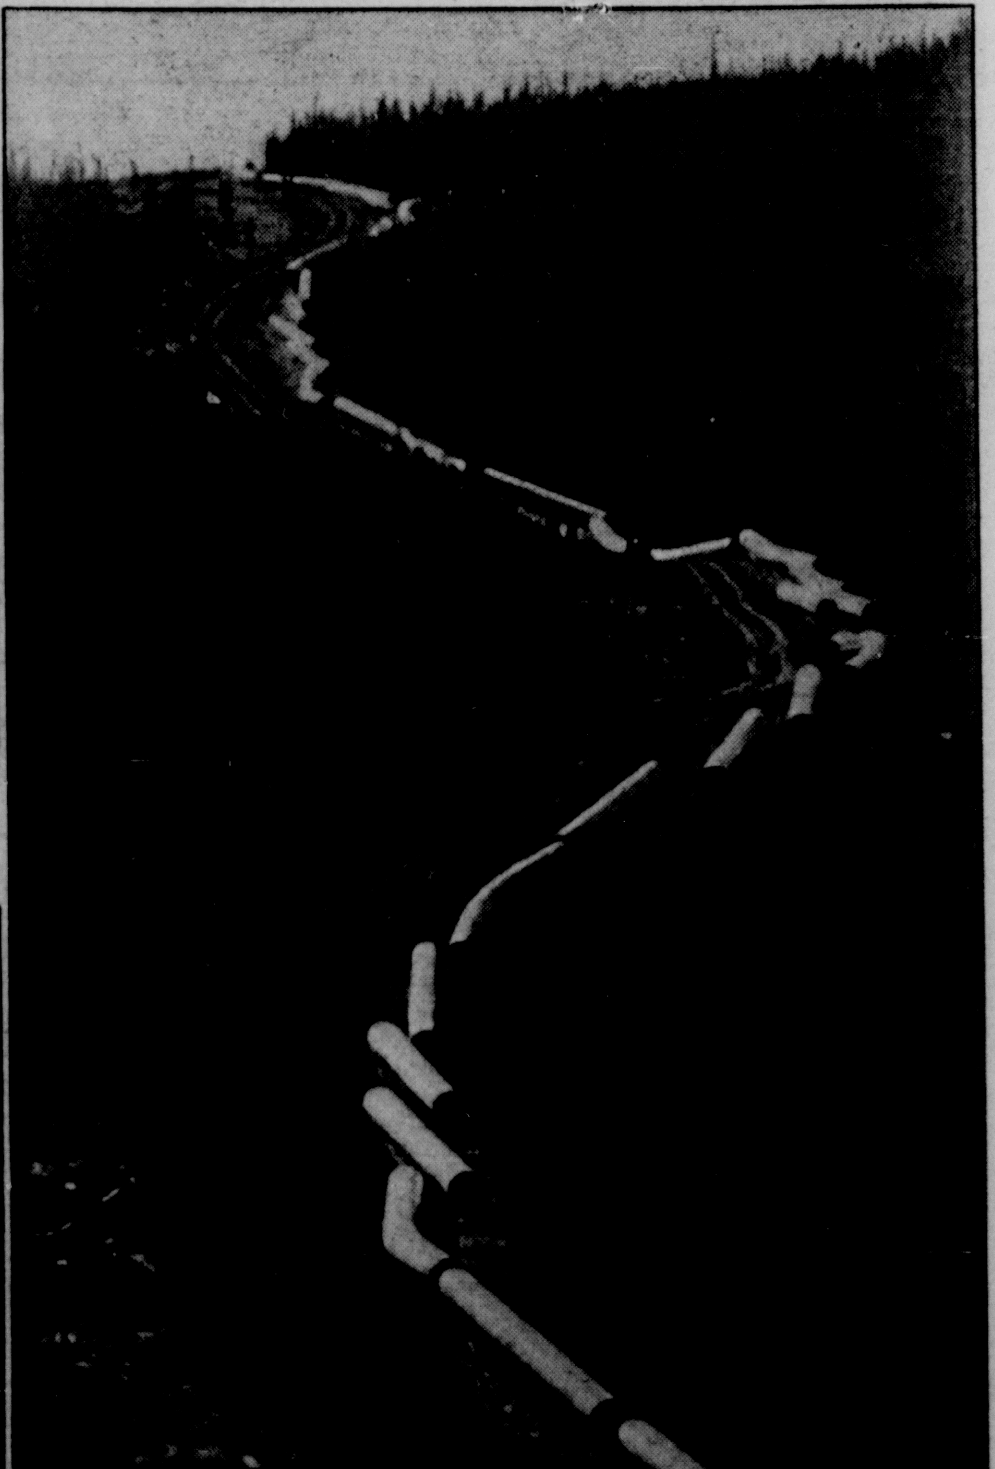


THE THREE BEARS — A bear and her cubs meandered across the trans-Alaska oil pipeline right of way, passing under an elevated section of the 800-mile long line. The elevated sections were among the demands won by environmentalists who battled the original design.



PIPE WELDERS — The sparks fly as welders join sections of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline. The welders consider themselves the "elite" of the project's workers and wear flowered work caps to set themselves apart from the other employes.

ON THE TRAIL — A truck moves over a work road built on a layer of polystyrene, which keeps the permafrost from melting. The area is a completed section of the pipeline.



Photos by Associated Press

WAITING FOR WELDING — Sections of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline rest on the ground near the Arctic Circle waiting to be welded together. The pipeline is progressing so methodically that a visitor to the construction zone might almost forget the controversy and problems that blocked the project for more than three years. Pipeline officials say they are staying close to schedule.

Half the fun of cooking is in being well organized where everything is available at our homemaker's fingertips. The spice and cookbook shelf shown here with actress Susan Flannery has many benefits. It can be fastened on the wall where it's handy, but still out of the way.

Cookbooks and spices are key ingredients in preparing any dish of character, so they should always be within reach. You'll notice that the pullout bookrack holds any size book open to any page you desire, a mighty handy idea when you're in the middle of a recipe. When cleaning up, simply replace the book in the rack and close the shelf.

This is a project that any amateur can undertake with success and confidence when using the full-size pattern. Just trace the pattern parts on plywood, saw them out and assemble. It's inexpensive and in addition to being handy, it adds a decorator touch to your kitchen. By the way, here's a tip. A friend of mine uses large-size vitamin bottles as spice containers and has a commercial artist handletter the labels.

To obtain the full-size spice and book shelf pattern No. 404, send $1.50 (includes first class postage & handling). Send check, cash or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Pomona ProgressBulletin Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, California 91409.

SUPER RAT — Geronimo, the daredevil rat, perches atop the shoulder of sixth grader Greg Ison before his spectacular leap from a 12-foot platform before an audience of newsmen at Seattle's prestigious Olympic Hotel. Prisoner won't give up hope MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — Lonnie Gill hasn't given up hope that at age 71 he can be paroled from prison and find a home and a job.

And he didn't mind interrupting an afternoon nap on his bed in the old man's colony at the West Virginia Penitentiary recently to say he doesn't want to die behind the walls.

"I'll go anywhere to keep from dying in here," he said. He'll be 72 on Jan. 4 and is among the oldest inmates at the maximum security prison.

But he has no family and nowhere to go.

There were no Christmas cards on the wooden dresser next to his bed in the dorm-like facility and only a few meager belongings and some letters in the drawers of the dresser.

He is serving a life sentence for murder, but he was eligible for parole two years ago when he had completed 10 years of the life sentence. He's been before the parole board twice, but each time, because he has no family or home to go to, Gill has been turned down.

Short, with a stubble of white hair on his head, Gill said he went before the parole board last September. He recalled that members talked to him for a little while but told him since he had no home or job or income "we'll see you next September."

Other inmates in the colony say Gill is harmless and no threat to society. They would like to see him find a home.

This was his 12th Christmas here. He said it has been a long time since he has had a happy holiday. He recalled good times in the past when a "bunch of people would come around and we'd eat and talk. There was no fightin' or drinkin'," he added.

He recently wrote Social Security officials to see if he qualified for benefits. But they wrote back that he needed to work an additional six months in order to qualify for a monthly check. But he says he cannot work while incarcerated.

Even at 71 he believes there are jobs he could do. He recalled with some pride that he worked on the railroad and helped to build the Bluestone Dam.

"I'm not going to tell you no lie. Me and a fellow got into it and I killed him," he said matter-of-factly. He said the man had been shoving him around and he didn't like that kind of treatment.

Records in the Summers County prosecutor's office show that robbery and murder warrants were issued in July 1964 for Gill following the death of Steve Yancy. Two months later, Gill pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and received a life term with mercy, meaning he was eligible for parole after serving 10 years of it.

He said it's no good being in prison, but he adds that he's got one of the best records — "I'm no trouble."

Gill resumed his afternoon nap on his bed. Above him, pasted on his headboard, is a picture cut out of an outdoors magazine showing an American eagle perched on the bank of a peaceful stream.

As he had explained, the picture takes his mind off the bleakness of his surroundings.

'Bound for Glory'

Carradine to star as Woody Guthrie

FELLOWS, Calif. (AP) — David Carradine, with stubbled face and time-worn clothes, was singing a quiet ballad and playing a tired old upright piano in a roadside tavern.

DAVID CARRADINE

Set workers were busily lining up a scene in the film "Bound for Glory," in which Carradine portrays the late balladeer Woody Guthrie. Someone spoke to the actor, and he stalked out of the tavern angrily, slamming the door so hard it shook the building.

This was a minor incident not uncommon toward the end of shooting a location film when tempers are shortened by long weeks away from home. The cameraman, trying to concentrate on his task, had asked Carradine to stop playing.

Carradine hurried to his trailer-dressing room, passing through the curious citizens of Fellows, once an oil-boom town but now a fitting replica of a 1930s setting for "Bound for Glory." Barely keeping his anger in check, Carradine explained his sudden departure from the set to a visitor:

"I thought it would be good to create the atmosphere by playing and singing, just the way Guthrie is doing in the script. But the cameraman didn't want the distraction. I've been in this business 19 years and I've never known a cameraman who cared about anything but doing his own work. That's all. He doesn't give a damn about actors and performances, only how it looks on the film.

He sulked. He took out a stringless guitar and began polishing it, spitting on the wood and rubbing it with emery paper. He talked.

Had he long been a fan of Guthrie?

"Nope. I couldn't have told you who he was or what songs he wrote. The only thing I knew was that he wrote 'Goodnight, Irene,' but it turned out he didn't."

Then why did he so earnestly seek the role?

"Because I read a script about six years ago when Harold Hecht was trying to produce it. I figured I was the one to play it. Nothing came of it until this year when I ran into an old girlfriend of mine at a party. She told me they were going to do the Woody Guthrie story and I should play it.

"I called me agent — my manager, really — and told him to look into it. He said there wasn't any chance, but he agreed to call (producer) Bob Blumofe and (director) Hal Ashby. Because he was an old friend of theirs, they agreed to see me."

Carradine, 36, arrived for a brief interview with Ashby, stayed two hours, ended up videotaping an impromptu session of guitar, song and conversation. That sold the United Artists brass. But, Carradine added, so did his late television series, "Kung Fu."

"They're well aware of the worldwide popularity of 'Kung Fu,'" he said. "In every country it has played, it's gone to number one. I get fan mail from all over the world. If it weren't for 'Kung Fu,' I wouldn't be doing 'Bound for Glory.'"

The series folded last season after three years on the ABC network. What killed "Kung Fu"?

"I did," the actor confessed. "I told them all along that I would only do three seasons, but they wouldn't believe me. They sent me contracts to sign, but I never would.

"Finally they got the message, and they helped kill it — by moving it to different nights and by giving us no lead-in. It's impossible to build a rating under those circumstances."

A woman assistant director appeared at the trailer to announce that a rehearsal had been called. "Maybe we just won't have a rehearsal," Carradine replied, and he poured out his feelings about the insensitivity of cameramen. The assistant director listened sympathetically and said again that it was time for a rehearsal. Carradine spit on his guitar and rubbed it some more, then shoved a faded hat on his head and marched toward the tavern. Production went on.

Transfusion to give concert at Citrus

Jazz drummer Les DeMerle and his octet, Transfusion, will present a concert in the Citrus College Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11.

On the same program will be the 20-member Citrus Jazz Ensemble, top rated jazz group at last year's Orange Coast Jazz Festival. The ensemble recently performed at the Reno International Jazz Festival sponsored by the University of Nevada, and also performed, with the El Toro Marine Base Jazz Band, the "Ballet in Brass," written especially for the Citrus College group by Vic Schoen, nationally known composer and arranger.

As an added concert highlight, both groups will appear in a grand finale, led by DeMerle, with a drum panorama featuring six sets of drums.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students with ID cards.

DeMerle is one of 36 players selected in 1974 to be in the Zildjian Cymbal Company's Hall of Fame. He and his group play high energy jazz. DeMerle says of his music, "This band almost literally gives people a transfusion. We used to think of it as new blood, new fire, exploring new music. We play to a lot of different audiences at festivals and concerts, not just the hard-core jazz audiences, but for people who have never even heard improvised music before."

The largest of the six New England states with 33,215 square miles, Maine is the only one of the 48 conterminus United States that borders on only one — New Hampshire. Its deeply indented seacoast measures 3,478 miles. West Quaddy Point is the most easterly U.S. mainland town.

Marketing is positive

NEW YORK (AP) — In an economic downturn, marketing alone among all corporate functions assumes a positive role, a Chicago executive told the Conference Board's three-day 1975 marketing conference here.

Conway G. Ivy, director of the corporate planning for Gould Inc., said "Only marketing, it seems to me, among all other operations of a company, can take offensive contingency measures which are positive in both their approach and end result. Like placing emphasis on export sales, or undertaking special promotion to deplete an excessive finished goods inventory. Marketing in that respect is unique.

"All other company operations — manufacturing, purchasing, personnel, what - have - you — all of these take essentially defensive approaches in contingency planning with negative results — like laying off workers or holding the line on expenditures."

DRUMMER BOY — Louie Bellson and his orchestra will perform at the New Year's Eve party at Disneyland's Plaza Gardens. Also on the card are the Four Tops, The Hues Corporation, Chi Coltrane and comics Skiles and Henderson.
